EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE Democratic coat of arms is two barrels, one marked beer, and the other $200,000.

THE South and Great Britain are solid for the Democrats. You can draw your own conclusions.

THE opposition to the Republican party in this State is cemented by the cohesive power of plunder.

NONE but those who live on the interest of their money, can afford to be Free Traders in this country.

WILL the people consent to have the most notorious law breakers control the law makers? Answer at the polls.

THE Republicans, having freed 4,000,000 slaves, will now free the 10,000,000 who are slaves of the intoxicating cup.

THE State issue is one of honesty against dishonesty, principal against plunder, character against conspiracy.

A DEMOCRATIC legislature elected and owned by the Liquor League. How do you like the picture? It is promised next year.

THE Republicans endeavor to convince men, the Liquor League buys them. Are you ready to sell out your interest in our government?

OUR advice to the liquor men is, behave yourselves and you will be protected under the law, but if you don't you must submit to the penalty.

How any person in favor of law, order and temperance can vote the consolidated beer--whisky—Democratic ticket is a conundrum not easily solved.

A PROTECTIVE Tariff secures us diversified industries, which are essential to fair wages, as they tend to keep the demand for labor equal to the supply.

POSSIBLY the late stringency in the money market was caused by the temporary retirement of that quarter of a million corruption fund of the Liquor League.

IF any of our Democratic friends wish to know what they have to do, they will please inquire at the Head Quarters of the Liquor League in Philadelphia.

A FAMILY or personal right to protect against poverty by laboring to procure necessities, is the same principle when applied to a nation. Governments must protect their own people, not others.

THE brewers became intoxicated with power because they own and control two thirds of the beer saloons, and now they have purchased the Democracy, and want the Legislature. They will sober down after the election.

State Issues.

Thomas V. Cooper, chairman of the Republican State Committee, has issued a lengthy circular giving full particulars of the combination made between the Democrats and the Brewer's Association of this State to defeat the Republican party, and to bring about the result of such a defeat, namely, the repeal of the law giving the people the right to vote on Prohibition, the repeal of the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday and the repeal of all laws requiring Satbath observance. These are the principal issues of the campaign. We have room at this time to give only the concluding part of the circular which is as follows:

The Republican State Committee would not trifle with its great constituency, nor yet with any portion of the citizens of Pennsylvania, by submitting know facts like the above, solely for partisan purpose. The importance of the facts ascertained leap the bounds of any partisan purpose and appeal directly to the fireside. They appeal to all good citizens, to all Christians of whatever denomination, to all of our people who value the liberty of the law, even to all partisans who can forget their party when the welfare of society is threatened.

To any and all such we direct attention to the fact that it is the Republican party which is assailed by this startling State issue—not directly because of its National principles: not directly because of its administration of affairs in State or Municipality; but because it stands for good government, in both State and Municipality. It is charged with preserving the Sunday laws which forbid the sale of liquors upon that day. In answer, it accepts the responsibility. It is charged with having passed the High License law. It just as freely accepts that responsibility, for nearly all of its members in the House and Senate voted for the measure, while but few Democrats in the House and half of the Democrats in the Senate sustained it on final passage—most of these being willing to cripple it in advance of final passage. The State Committee might, in this connection, truthfully say that it was not a party measure, and that the Republican Representatives and Senators who voted for it but reflected the views of their immediate constituencies; and we might deny the right of city Leagues to question and punish men beyond their jurisdiction for having voted in obedience to home sentiment. But in facing the issue the paramount desire is to brush aside every fact which is lacking in strength, and every form of subterfuge which is lacking in the highest courage. The issue is accepted. No responsibility shall be evaded, and come defeat or victory to our standard we intend to carry with us the reflection that our old State flag was maintained throughout this contest as bravely as the National one.

The Republican party is charged with having in State convention and Legislative caucus ordered the submission to a vote of the people the amendment to prohibit the sale of liquor, and was affirming a like determination this year. The charge is true—so flatly true that no Republican will evade it. It has become a cardinal principal with the Republican party that the people shall have precisely the same right to make their own laws upon liquor, as upon other questions. That sentiment covers every fold of our flag, and opens the door to our State platform.

The Republican party will not lie down in fear and trembling because of the new issues which have been thrust upon it—and this year and throughout this State thrust by a combination more powerful, and we may with truth say, more unscrupulous than any ever before known.

The combination has been truthfully and plainly described. It is affirmed upon every street corner—it is discussed in every saloon:—it is boldly proclaimed by blatant Sabbath haters and Socialists in every meeting of the Personal Liberty Leagues;—it is ordered directly from the common Political Headquarters of the various Liquor Leagues on Arch street; it is repeated from their Annex, and accepted along with the tenders of money at each and every Democratic Headquarters.

And now, the Republicans of Pennsylvania, and all of the good citizens thereof, should at once prepare for this great battle. The allies are well organized, with an abundance of the munitions not uncommon to political warfare. The Republican party of Pennsylvania has a magnificent organization, which reaches and permeates and has knowledge of each and every voting district in the State. Aid it with your means in modest ways and for legitimate purposes; aid it with your personal activities—with your counsels, and enter into its discipline to the end that what may prove the most momentous battle in the history of the State may be won, and won so gloriously that the various elements which threaten the integrity of the law and the welfare of society, will be careful how in future they contemplate and proclaim purposes for no higher object than the promotion of disorder and anarchy.

Though the Republican candidates are unexceptionable, it should be borne in mind by all that candidates are simply the representatives of a policy in a battle like this. The Democratic Saloon combination will ask no questions as to men, but will vote for objects which have been plainly stated. If they succeed every effort will be made to reach these objects, and they may reach them. If the Republican tickets succeed, it is the success of a policy which stands for rights of property, for the liberty of the law, for good government, and for that form of personal freedom in which each individual sacrifices something for the good of all. By order of the Republican State Committee.

THOMAS V. COOPER,
Chairman.

How the State Ticket is to be Printed

Chairman Cooper of the Republican State Committee, and Chairman Sanders, of the Democratic State Committee, met on Friday, October 7, and signed an agreement respecting the form of tickets to be voted in November, which is prescribed by law. There will be two tickets, one under the heading of "State" and the other "Judiciary." On the State ticket will be printed the name of the candidate for State Treasurer, preceeded by the words "For State Treasurer." The judiciary ticket will contain in like manner the name of the candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court. When there is a candidate for Additional Law Judge, President Judge, or Associate Judge, his name, with the title of the office for which he is a candidate, is printed on the Judiciary ticket under the name of the Supreme Judge. It is important that all tickets shall be properly prepared.

THE Tariff Plank in the Democratic platform adopted by the New York Convention foreshadows that to be agreed on by a nominating convention next year. It was the result of a caucus of the leaders, and therefore it has the sanction of the administration. This platform demands that the revenue "be straightway reduced by a sum not less than $100,000,000 a year;" that the duties "to be first reduced or altogether removed are those on imported raw materials;" that other duties "should be forthwith remitted or reduced which increase the cost of the common necessaries of life;" and that "several hundred articles" should be added to the free list, on the ground that the duties on them are effective for Protection and therefore yield little or no revenue. That is the Free Trade plan, and it is good to know that it is the Administration plan.

THE contributions for the relief of Charleston, S. C, according to a late statement, amounted to $646,106.90. This statement, read with the history of secession in course of publication in the Century, as part of the Life of Lincoln, possesses an interest apart from what attaches to it as the mere record of donations to a stricken people. In 1861 the boastful proclamation of treason in Charleston was: "In the name of God we set our banners up." In 1886 the cry was: "In the name of God save us from the wrath of heaven and give us bread."

SINCE liquor and Democracy have combined against the Republicans, the watchword on election day must be "For God, and Home and Native Land!" Drop the word Republican, if you choose, and vote for the cause and the principles which the Republican party represents.

UNCLE SAM RANDALL is now in Atlanta, Ga., and they are making a great to-do about him. One of the papers of that city, in introducing him to the public, said that he had done more for the South than any other man in Congress. Almost alone he resisted the force bill.

THE opportunity may come in the courts to decide that a purchased vote is a dishonest one, and that both buyer and the seller are amenable to the law.

Take Your Choice.

The choice of candidates for votes, this year, will be so plain that no mistake need be make. The Republican candidate for associate judge is Daniel Rhoads—one of nature's noblemen—a man as excellent and just and generous in heart and principle as he is large in body. To look at him is to respect and repose confidence in him. In John Grove the Democrats have placed a man on the ticket for whom every whiskey seller in the county is willing to pull of his coat and work. The Watchman denies that John has made any pledges, but the evidence of one's own eyes and ears is more conclusive than a denial from such a source.

For Treasurer Cyrus Goss is the standard bearer. Mr. Goss is a well known business man. In busrness he is careful and conservative, competent and correct. James Kimport, who carries the somewhat soiled insignia of Democracy, cannot compare with him in these qualities, and those who have regard for prudent and efficient management of affairs will hesitate to vote for him.

Robert Cooke, Jr., has made a success of all his business affairs. Naturally he takes pride in whatever he attempts to do and does it well. No better man could have been chosen to correct the abuses which have crept into the office of High Sheriff of Centre county.

Mr. J. C. Henderson has continued the excellent work which has all along characterized the Republican part of the commissioner's office. It seems to us that the course of Mr. Griest has been somewhat vacillating. In several particulars which we might mention he has shown a disregard for the rights of the people which is inexcusable. But the most objectionable feature of his nomination is the fact that he represents the third term idea which is in opposition to the "succession in office" theory which has always existed in this country. To elect him would be to bind still stronger the chains which the oligarchy—sometimes called the Court House Ring—is fastening with restraining force on the rights and liberties of Centre county Democracy. A vote for Henderson and Decker will obviate a continuance or growth of these galling bonds. Come forth, and be free men.

There is not in Centre county a brighter young man than T. M. Gramley, the Republican candidate for register. He is now a school teacher whose services are highly prized. The qualifications which he possesses are just the kind that are needed. Certainly, as much cannot be said of Mr. Rupp, his opponent. Mr. Gramley is a self-made man. He had no more advantages than Mr. Rupp, but now is a thousand times better fitted for the office. His neighbors and those who know him best will vote for him. All should do so.

Between Mr. John F. Harter and Mr. W. G. Morrison there is perhaps no choice in the point of efficiency. But Mr. Morrison is too much of a crooked politician and his election would be to perpetuate present abuses.

S. T. Gray and Andrew Gregg deserve your united support for auditors. There are no better citizens in the county. We have not a word to say against their opponents except that they are unfortunate in being connected with such a weak ticket, and must go down with the other men who have been placed on it.

What a Democratic Vote Means.

Will not the man who votes the Democratic State ticket this year put himself on the same level with the Anarchists? The Philadelphia Press, on Saturday, published proof that the Personal Liberty League has allied itself with Democracy in the hope of having good laws repealed. The Personal Liberty League is composed of foreigners who can not appreciate the wholse-some restraint imposed on the people of this country, which has really given us the prosperity and good goverement we now enjoy. The Personal Liberty League would destroy our Sabbath, which is perhaps the greatest blessing the laboring man enjoys. A man who gives his vote to the party controlled by this Personal Liberty League will, in fact, vote to do away with Sunday and in favor of having seven days labor for the same pay he now receives for six, thus outraging God's commandment and making his own condition similar to that of a slave. Thus, the Personal Liberty League is a misnomer, for what means the free and unbridled license of a few means the servitude of the many. It is not exaggeration to say that the Democratic party, for the sake of a temporary lease of power, has sold itself to the Devil and that, too, before it received the thirty pieces of silver.

A Temperance Party.

Our opponents often sneer at the Republican party, calling it the "God and morality" party. "The charge is true and we glory in its truth." No party "ever achieved anything great" in the science of government, in the art of peace, or in the tumult of war that did not act in the fear of God and for the promotion of morality. But our Democratic foes do not intend to have it understood that they really believe that we are what they say we are, but they put it upon us as a term of reproach as did the ancient pagans when they first stigmatised the followers of our Lord and Saviour as Christains at Antioch. But the charge is true, nevertheless. Though our great party, made up of mortal men, sometimes veers from the straight path, yet it sways back to its course which is always onward, and the great reforms of the day are taken up by it and fearlessly advocated. The coming issue which our party is to meet is the temperance question, and it will meet it fearlessly and bravely, and will march on to victory. The Republicans of Centre county meet that issue here and now. They have nominated a man for associate judge who is known of all men as a man who fears God and deals justly with his fellowmen, whose every act in official or private life will be for the promotion of temperance and morality. We present Mr. Daniel Rhoads to the voters of this county as a temperance man—Republican if you please; but a temperance Republican. We ask the voters to decide at this election whether they want licensed rum holes or not. A vote for Rhoads is a vote for temperance; a vote for Grove is a vote to throw the mantle of the law over the drink curse—one of the greatest evils of the age. We believe that the people of this county want temperance; therefore, they will vote for Daniel Rhoads for associate judge.

Washington Letter.

A strong effort will be made by the District Democracy, aided by various State clubs organized there, to have the next Democratic National Convention held in Washington. Several meetings have already been held, and considerable correspondence had in relation to the matter, and the leaders in the movement claim that there is a fair show of success. Washington is getting to be central point of numerous large annual gatherings, and the number is constantly increasing. The project to build an immense Hall, with seating capacity for 8000, with all modern conveniences, is meeting with great encouragement.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is remarkably modest in his demands, considering that he is an important factor in a "Reform" administration. In his estimates for the next fiscal year he asks for 175 additional clerks and an increase in the appropriation for his Bureau over that of last year, of nearly one million of dollars. If all Bureau officers were like Sparks, and their requests should be granted by Congress, there would be no occasion to worry about the surpluse in the Treasury.

Figures at the Treasury show that during last month we exported flour to the value of $5,351,812, and wheat to value of $4,701,860. This year the September exportation of wheat has fallen off over one half, and the exportation of flour has increased almost two-thirds over the corresponding month of last year.

Presidential Pleasure Trips.

A correspondent at Moshannon says that the President's pleasure trips, about which so much is said, remind him of an instance in his own experience, which he vouches for as exactly true.

As a tradesman, he says, I had an apprentice who made it a practice to attend all the parties and dances that came within reach. On Saturday evening, however, Mr. ——, the farmer for whom I was then putting up a job of work, told me that my apprentice need not come back again as he did too much running around to attend to the work properly. The consequence was he did not return, as I, of course, had to discharge him. Nor did he serve another term or ever complete his apprenticeship. Is Mr. Cleveland the apprentice?

Our Story Teiler'

THE SILVER FLORIN.

"Married?" said Mitty Vale, despondently. "Yes· but I shall never be married!"

"Why not?" asked Kate Kingsley.

It was the golden flush of a June day. The two girls were leaning over an old stone wall, in one of those lovely nooks that far outvie the Swiss valleys of which travelers rave.

Mitty was the farmer's daughter, black-eyed and piquant, with a complexion of gipsy brown—curly dark hair, which would part on one side like a boy's—and rosy mouth, all stained with the juice of the fragrant strawberries that she was gathering. She wore a cambric skirt, a dark blue serge, with a sailor collar, and flat bow of black ribbon, and one of her father's huge flapping straw hats was pulled down to keep the sun out of her eyes; while Miss Kingsley, the pretty girl who was at Hedge Farm by the doctor's orders, to drink new milk, eat fresh fruit, and breathe in the smell of freshly mown hay, sat close beneath the wall, daintily selecting the largest and ripest berries out of a leaf full which Mitty had placed in her lap. She wore a pretty costume, all loops, ribbons and paniers; a straw hat, garlanded around by French roses, and a veil—for Kate Kingsley could not forget that she had a complexion. She was pretty, after an insipid, wax-doll type, crimped her hair, bathed her skin in glycerine and rose water, and always slept in kid gloves to keep her hands white.

"Why not?" repeated Mitty.

"Why who is there to marry me?" she asked.

"I'm sure," said Kate, "there are plenty of young men around here."

"Granted," nodded Mitty; "but the girls are plentier still. And every eligible bachelor is either married, or just going to be married, or else keeping company with some nice girl—except old Dr. Crabtree, who has no teeth, and young Martindale, who has lost his wits, and is going about with a keeper. While you—happy you—have a lover all picked out by your father and mother, who is coming here this week to woo and win you. Couldn't you exchange lots with me, Miss Kingsley?"

"I don't think papa and mamma would like it," said Kate.

Mitty flashed a bright sidewise glance at her from beneath the long curly lashes of her dark eyes, and smiled, all to herself. "I wonder," said she, "if he will like his little room under the eaves? I hope he don't object to rag carpets and home-made curtains; and that he won't find out that the bedside chair is glued, and the looking-glass frame manufactured out of pine cones. Oh, dear, dear! If we were only rich enough to put our guests into satin-lined boudoirs like those we read of in stories. But now I must make haste and gather more berries, or Aunt Naomi never will have enough to preserve. Hush!" holding up one ruby-dyed finger; "isn't there some one coming now—some one walking with a swift, elastic tread along the high road?"

"It's only the drip of the little waterfall," said Kate, too indolently content to rise up out of her leafy nook.

But Mitty's ear was too acute and well-trained for a mistake; and in half a minute Mr. George Redlyn came around the wooded bend of the road, walking with a long easy stride, and swinging the light stick which he had cut from the woods upon his way.

Quick as Mitty Vale was, she was not quick enough to evade his keen glance, as she shrank back behind the wall of silver birches.

"Stop a minute, my lad," said he. And really the mistake was natural enough, considering the gypsy skin, the hair parted on one side under a flapping hat, the mouth all smeared with rosy stains, and the fact that only Mitty's head was visible over the stone wall. "There is a spring at the foot of yonder rock. Give me a drink."

Mitty held the cocoanut shell, full of dripping water, over the wall.

"That's a good fellow," said Mr. Redlyn, as he drank long and deep. "Strawberry, are you?"

"Yes, sir," acknowledged Mitty.

"You have picked out that leaf full of berries with particular care," said Redlyn, with a laughing light in his eyes.

"For your sweetheart, I suppose. Let me have it, I am half-choaked with dust and heat. Thanks!" as Mitty shyly reached the strawberries, which had been gathered for Kate's especial delectation, over the wall. "And here is somethink to buy her a string of beads instead." And he flung a florin over into the grass, and passed on, eating the fragrant strawberries as he went.

Mitty held up the silver piece to Kate. "See what I have earned," she said. "And, oh, Miss Kingsley, you can have no idea how handsome he was."

"But I don't think," said prim Kate, "it was quite proper—his taking you for a young man and all that."

"Why not?" asked Mitty. "I only wish I was a young man! What shall I buy with this money? I don't think I care for beads."

"Why didn't you give it back again?" said Kate haughtily.

"Because," Mitty answered demurely, "I don't come across a bit of luck so often that I can afford to trifle with it. But perhaps I shall give it back to him—sometime."

"How can you?" said straightforward Kate.

"It was Mr. Grange Redlyn."

"No!" cried Kate, springing out of her nest of tall ferns and wild-roses. "How do you know?"

"Because I saw his photograph in your room," said Mitty. "And now, perhaps, you had better go back to the house, and be ready to welcome him. We can easily get there by the short-cut, before he can toil around by the high road."

So the best room was opened, fresh lilies were in the vases, and Kate had on her newest mauve muslin dress, when Mr. Redlyn came into the cool dark room.

"Set down, Mr. Redlyn—set down!" said the farmer. "I wish I had known you was comin' down by the noon train—I could have sent old Whitey and the wagon to meet you. You must have had a warm walk. Girls, girls! where are you? Bring in some of the lemonade, and syllabub, and things."

"Not in the least—not in the least," said Mr. Redlyn good-humoredly, laying aside his hat. "The walk was delightful! By the way, I met one of the most beautiful boys I ever saw in my life, a mile or so down the road, gathering strawberries in a little green nook. I should like to sketch that boy, if I only could find him out. Could you tell me who he was? Very dark, with curly black hair, and——"

Just then, in fluttered Kate Kingsley, looking as if she had suddenly stepped out of a fashion-plate, and with her came Mitty Vale.

"Yes," Mitty said, calmly, anticipating Redlyn's look of amazement, as he was introduced to "my friend, Miss Vale," "you saw me in the woods gathering strawberries, and you took me for a boy. Well, I am not very much surprised at the mistake. My hair never parts in the middle, and I had on my father's old straw farm hat. Pray don't apologize."

"But I must apologize," said Grange Redlyn, blushing to the roots of his hair. "I must have seemed exactly like a savage."

Mitty laughed merrily. "I think I was the savage," said she. "But now if you will come out to dinner, I will give you some of those very strawberries for dessert."

Mr. Redlyn stayed a month at Hedge Farm. He had come prepared to fall in love, and he fulfilled his destiny. But it was with the wrong person. The pink and white city beauty did not stike his eye at all—The dark little gypsy, Mitty, fascinated him at once.

"Nonsense!" said Mitty; "do you suppose I am going to poach on another girl's dominions? You belong to Kate Kingsley, not to me."

"I belong to no one!" said Grange Redlyn stoutly. And I will never marry any one but you And besides——"

"Well?"

"Miss Kingsley engaged herself this morning to Mr. Percival, the squire's son, up at the big house. She came to me, all in tears, begging my pardon, but she loved Fred Percival with all her heart, and please did I think her papa would be very angry, and would I hate her always, if she broke through the old family compact?"

"And what did you say?" questioned Mitty.

"I told her I would do my best to intercede for her, and that I should always regard her with esteem, and all that sort of thing. And now, Mitty, my own dark-eyed princess, tell me that you will be my wife!"

"I'll think of it," said Mitty roguishly.

"But I don't want any thoughts. I want my answer—plain Yes or No," he said.

"Must I really decide now?" said Mitty dubiously.

"Certainly you must," said Mr. Grange Redlyn, who had planted himself in such a way that, unless she jumped out of the window, she could not escape the tribunal of his eyes.

"Well, then, I suppose I had better say 'Yes,'" said Mitty.

So they were engaged, and to this day Mrs. Grange Redlyn carries, next to her heart, a silver florin, fastened on a piece of cherry vessel ribbon. She calls it her "lucky penny," and she is a little inclined to be superstitious about it.

Have not all women the little superstitious? And can we blame them for it?

News Versus Humor.

"Now there," said a newspaper humorist to a friend, "is a little joke of mine, and next to it is a brief report of how John Smith broke his leg. Not twenty people care a rot about John Smith or his legs, while thousands will read my joke, and many of them will read it twice."

"You are right, Charley, you are right; I read that joke twice myself—and I don't know what it means yet."

Why Is It?

Pennsylvania is growing in sinfulness with appalling rapidity. In 1850 one person out of every 15,320 was arrested in the course of a year for crime. In 1886 the ratio of arrests was nearly trebled, it having been one person out of every 5,981. How are we to account for this? Is it the demoralization of war; the drift away from agricultural industry, to mining and manufacturing; or the increase of vicious inclinations with the increase of wealth and fast living? It will hardly do to ascribe the advance of wickedness to the incoming immigrants, for the statistics of European nations show an improved morality. Whatever the cause may be of advancing crime in Pennsylvania, the fact of the increase must be regarded with alarm.—Phila. Record.

Very difficult, Mr. Record, to tell, answers the Northern Tier Gazette, but then a pretty good guess can be made toward it. In the first place, in 1850, the flood of criminals, paupers and vagabonds that now pour in a steady stream on our shores from Europe, was almost wholly unknown. In the second place, the drainage of this off-scouring of the earth, to our shores, has left the old world cleaner, of course. Look at the reports of arrests, and note the names, and it will be found that they are in the main foreigners, whose manners, minds and morals were not shaped in this country, except as they have been moulded by the saloon and drinking dens.

Again, about 1850, the so called American saloon, with its debauching customs, reeking with all kinds of vice, was established, and no other school of crime ever had such apt scholars The Bible says "the curse causeless shall not come," and the crime that flows from this source, has a very plain origin. When tens of thousands of saloons ornament (?) our towns and cities, what shall prevent the debauchery of the masses and the increase of crime?

When such papers as the Record attack all attempts to control the liquor traffic and sneer at Prohibition and temperance, what can be expected, but that the people will be educated to ways of vice. Not all of Mr. Singerley's tenement houses will paliate the offense to good morals, that the paper is guilty of. When scarcely a newspaper in Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Lancaster, Reading, Scranton, Erie or Williamsport, professes to serve the cause of good morals and temperance; and print three columns of slugging match to one column of religious or educational, what can be expected? There is not in one of the cities of the Union, a newspaper of the standing, mental and moral, of the old Tribune, under Greeley; and there is no better stimulant of crime than the Sunday paper that reek with its details and run over with foulness, indecency and irreligion.

These are the true causes of crime and its increase, and papers like the Record are guilty of a great wrong in not raising an earnest and effective protest against the causes that create this appalling increase.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Needles in a Haystack.

Here are some of the things the Stroller wants to see: The sallow-skinned, mole-spotted faced woman of forty who does not aver, "I had a lovely complexion when I was a girl." The feminine 200-pounder who can have a dress made without alluding to the fact that when she was married she only weighed 110, and her waist measured only eighteen inches. The woman with a load of false hair on her head who had not (according to her own account) a magnificent head of hair when she was young. The women who will buy a pair of crocheted slippers at church fair if the cork soles are numbered any size larger than two. The servant-girl who didn't have everything just suited to her mind with "the last lady I lived wid." The man who can hear of another man's marrying a lady with money without a cynical smile. A woman who can speak of the bride of an "eligible" without the guarded ambiguity: 'Well—she's hardly the woman I should have expected him to pick out." An ugly brat of a ten year old boy whose mother does not make a claim on your admiration by the assertion that "every one used to remark what a beautiful baby he was." The man who can't give the reason why another man's son turned out bad in defiance of good training. The gray-haired man of middle age who has not grown into the belief that gray hairs are no indications of old age. The middle-aged woman who can believe of one of her contemporaries that she wears glasses from near-sightedness and not from age.

Visitor: "I saw your daughter the other evening, and she was looking quite pale. Isn't she very delicate?" Materfamilias: "Delicate? No, indeed! I'll venture there ain't a girl in New York society as indelicate as my daughter is."

How Baby First Began to Talk.

"Oh, George!" cried young Mrs. Merry, running to meet her husband at the door, "I've something the best to tell you."

"No?" said George; "what is it?"

"Why, don't you think—the baby can talk! Yes, sir, actually talk! He's said ever and ever so many things. Come right into the nursery and hear him."

George went in.

"Now, baby," said mamma persuasively, "talk some for papa. Say 'How do you do, papa?'"

"Goo, goo, goo, goo," says baby.

"Hear him!" shrieks mamma, ecstatically. "Wasn't that just as plain as plain can be?"

George says it is, and tries to think so, too.

"Now say, 'I'm glad to see you, papa."

"Da, da, boo, bee, boo."

"Did you ever?" cries mamma. "He can just say everything! Now you precious little honey bunny boy, say, "Are you well, papa?"

"Boo, ba, de, goo, goo."

"There it is," said mamma. "Did you ever know a child of his age who could really talk as he does? He can just say anything he wants to; can't you, you own dear little darling precious?"

"Goo, goo, dee, dee, di, goo."

"Hear that!" He says, 'Of course I can,' just as plainly as anybody could say it. Oh, George, it really worries me to have him so phenomenally bright. These very brilliant babies nearly always die young.

The Dinner Pail.

The man with the dinner pail is a common sight on our streets. We see so many of this class every day that perhaps we have never given it a second thought. Let us consider for a moment, on the usefulness of this army of men with tin pails who go and return from their workshops day in and day out the year round as regular as the sun rises and sets. They are the bone and sinew of the land, the keystone of the great arch of American progress. The merchant, the capitalist, are useful and necessary, but all are dependent on the man with the tin pail. The capitalist may have millions at his command, but his money is of no use to him unless the wheels of the workshop and the railroad go around and they cannot be kept in motion without the help of the man with the dinner pail. The merchant fills an important place in every community, but without the patronage of the man with the dinner pail he could not do business long. The statesman who makes the laws depends upon the vote of the man with the dinner pail to create him a law maker. What power is concentrated in the army of men who trudge daily between home and workshop. With power of good or evil, combined under one banner, they could defy the world.

She Would Make No Lemon Pies.

Arkansaw Traveler.

Mrs. Saunders, a recently married lady of Austin, Texas, had no practical knowledge of cooking, but she bought a cook-book, and made an earnest effort to overcome her deficiencies.

"I wish you would made a lemon pie for dinner. My mother used to make such nice lemon pie," said Mr. Saunders one day.

"Well, if you want any lemon pies you can get your mother to make them for you; I'll not do it," she replied warmly.

"Why, I am surprised to hear you talk that way."

"I don't care if you are surprised. I'm not going to burn myself up for nobody. I was reading the recipe in the cook-book yesterday and it winds up 'then sit on a hot stove and stir constantly.' I expect almost anybody would stir constantly while sitting on a hot stove, but I am not going to make any experiments. Catch me sitting on a hot stove!"

A Beat Beaten, or the Calm Cashier.

A youngish man, wearing good clothes and a plug hat, rushed up the steps of a Griswold street bank yesterday, hurried along to the window of the cashier and elbowing two or three people aside he said to the man behind the window:

"Can you give five tens for this fifty? I'm in a great hurry to catch the train."

The cashier calmly received the bill, gave it one brief glance and then shoved it under a stamp and returned it. It was stamped with a big red "counterfeit."

"—— you!" growled the man with the good clothes as he hurried out.

"Rats!" replied the cashier, but he was calm—very calm.

Search Your Own Pockets.

"George," said a loving wife, "I am going to sell a lot of your old clothes to-day when the ragman comes around."

"All right, but go through the pockets first. There may be something of value in them.

In the evening.

"Well, Annie, did you sell the clothes?"

"Yes."

"Find anything?"

"Yes, you wretch! I found the letter to my mother I gave you to post two months ago inviting her here."

And George kicked himself for suggesting a search of his pockets.

Some Curious Facts.

Not many evenings ago, while a young lady was singing, the glass shade on a gas burner broke, frightening the singer nearly out of her wits, and though the chandelier contained nine glass shades, the one immediately in front of where the lady stood was the only one broken. Her voice, which was loud and strong, had shattered the glass, but it is not less strange than true. I know a person who can break a small tumbler of thin glass by holding it before his mouth and making a peculiar trilling noise. While away up amid Alpine solitudes of Switzerland, a few years ago I noticed the muleteers tied up the bells on their mules, and was told that the protracted combined tinkling would start an avalanche. A dog barking will make the strings of a piano forte sound, and after all, vibration of the strings is what makes the music.

Vibration is simply a moving to and fro, as we can see the pendulum of a clock do. All things have a certain vibration, though we cannot always see it. Some things have a number of vibrations in their different parts, and when two things vibrate in time with each other, and are near each other, though it is only air that connects them the movement of one is affected by the other. The lady's voice broke the shade in the chandelier because the two vibrated in time with each other, and the motion of the voice so increased the motion of the glass as to loosen its particles and allow them to fall apart. When two clocks whose pendulums have the same vibration are in the same room, and the clock doors are open, if the pendulum of one is set in motion, the pendulum of the other will move also. This is the reason: Every time the pendulum of the clock vibrates, it sends a puff of air in the direction of the pendulum of the second clock, and these puffs, continued regularly, set the pendulum of the second clock going. When two pianos are in the same room, if the strings of one are struck, not only will they vibrate, but also the corresponding strings of the other piano, providing that the forte pedal of the second piano has been depressed. If you whistle a note into a piano or violin, the strings of the instrument in unison with that note will audibly take it up.

The first iron bridge ever built was that at Colebrook Dale, in England. While it was building a fiddler came along and said, "I can fiddle that bridge down." The workmen, little alarmed, bade him fiddle away to his heart's content. Whereupon the musician tried one note after another on his instrument, until he hit one in tune with the movement of the bridge, and the structure began to quiver so perceptibly that the laborers begged him to cease and let them alone, which he did; otherwise the structure would surely have fallen.

A Phenomenal Crazy Quilt.

Miss Ella Fike, of this city, has just completed a crazy quilt which she has spent over four years in making. It is two yards in width and two and three-fourths yards long and is bordered with heavy ruby-colored surah silk, and is beautiful in the extreme. The feature of the quilt is that it consists entirely of silk, satin, velvet and plush scraps from famous and noted persons, such as Presidents and their wives. Most all are of President Arthur's Cabinet and their families, most of President Cleveland's Cabinet, officials and families of the United States Supreme Court, members and families of diplomatic corps, United States Senators and Representatives and their wives, Governors and families of different States, actors and actresses and other noted persons. Every piece in the quilt has a history. The quilt comprises nine large blocks, one of which contains pieces from the dresses and cravats of members of her graduating classes and her teachers. The kind of work which she has decorated it with are flat and raised wool and silk chenile and arasene tinsel embroidery, brush painting, Kensington painting, raised work in ribbon, velvet and plush, Kensington embroidery in silk and crewels brading, beading, applique, etching, transfer, cross-stitch, different designs in fans, palettes, plaques and bugs of silk, satin, velvet and plush. The quilt contains pieces of ribbons from two of Mrs. Cleveland's wedding bonnets.

If you haven't a sharp eye in your head and are not possessed of keen perceptive faculties, you are liable to be "stuck" with counterfeit silver dollars, for they are circulating just now in this vicinity very freely. They have a good jingle, which the bankers say, is given to them by the glass in their composition. Cashier Roberts, of the First National, says the counterfeits are almost good enough to deceive an expert.—Johnstown Tribune.

A Good Woman Dead.

LONDON, October 14.—The death of Dinah Maria Mulock, the authoress, is announced.

Dinah Maria Mulock was born at Stoke upon-Trent, Staffordshire, England, in 1826. Her father, who had been a clergyman, died, leaving a widow, a daughter and two sons to struggle along on a small annuity. Mrs. Mulock died before the children were fully grown, and the annuity perished with her, and the responsibility of earning such a living for herself and brothers that she might keep them with her developed upon the daughter. She tried literature and succeeded, a publisher accepting her first story and paying well for it. With her pen she provided for and educated her brothers, one of whom, as soon as he had completed his education, went to South America, where he died, when the younger was accidentally killed soon after he became able to share her burden.

Miss Mulock found in her literary work a relief from the sadness of her position, and applied herself diligently and with increased success to the writing of stories. Her first novel, "The Ogilvies," appeared in 1849, and was followed a year later by "Olive," the latter making permanent the fame obtained by the former. "Alice Learmont" and "The Head of the Family" appeared in 1851, and in 1852 "Agatha's Husband" was welcomed by readers who were glad to welcome each of her succeeding novels and to note that each was an improvement upon its predecessor.

Miss Mulock reached the zenith of her power in 1857, when "John Halifax, Gentleman," appeared, a story which is universally conceded to her masterpiece. Among other novels she wrote were "A Life for a Life," "Christian's Mistake," "Two Marriages," and "A Noble Life" and among writings of another kind, were collections of fugitive papers, several books for young people, a volume of poems, and other works.

In 1865 Miss Mulock married Captain George Lillie Craik, an officer in the English army, and their married life, although the husband was some years the junior of his wife, was happy. Of late years she lived in the vicinity of Richmond. Miss Mulock never permitted her name to be affixed to her productions, and "John Halifax" was claimed by Mrs. Granville Whythe, but, in a letter to a gentleman of this city, Miss Mulock acknowledged the authorship of that novel and also of the preceding volumes.

The Blame Fixed.

VALAPARAISO, Ind., October 14.—Coroner Letherman to-day rendered his verdict in the railway disaster at Kouts, as follows:

"On the 11th day of October, 1887, information was given to me that the bodies of a number of persons lay in Porter township, Porter county, Indiana, supposed to have come to their death by violence or casualty, and to ascertain so far as possible the cause and circumstances of said deaths, witnesses were called and sworn and their material evidence reduced to writing, signed by myself, and filed in the clerk's office of said county, whereupon I find decedents, to be, as far as I know, as follows

"Dr. William Perry, wife and daughter, a family supposed to be Millers, four in number, and one unknown man, not burned, supposed to be from Dundee, Illinois, and one unknown person, charred, who came to their death by reason of injuries caused by the fast freight train No. 48, of the Chicago and Atlantic railroad company, running into and crushing passenger train No. 12 of said road at the State Ditch water tank, Porter county, Indiana, at or about midnight of Monday, October 10, 1887, said accident being the result of the negligence of the train dispatcher of said road in permitting passener train No. 12 to attempt to run with a disabled engine, knowing that a fast freight train, No. 48, was but a few minutes behind it; and by the negligence or carelessness of Engineer Dorsey, of freight No. 48, running at high rate of speed through the fog, knowing that passenger train No. 12 was but a short distance in advance of his train with a disabled engine.

"The verdict is in accordance with the facts, that death resulted from carelessness or negligence on the part of the train dispatcher and the engineer of the fast freight No. 48, and censures the company for allowing a crippled engine, pulling a passenger train, to be on the road a few minutes in advance of a fast freight, and by the negligence of Engineer Dorsey in not providing his engine with sands and recklessness in running at such a rate of speed through the fog."

Briefs.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 12.—In the city election yesterday Denny (republican) was re-elected mayor, and Bowlus (republican) city clerk, by majorities estimated all the way from 500 to 1,000. Denny's majority twenty years ago was but sixteen. The Republicans gain also in both branches of the council, and will control both bodies.

PONCHATOULA, Pa., October 12.—Monday afternoon a negro drowned his wife because she refused to live with him any longer. While she was drowning, her brother came upon the scene and fired twenty buckshot into his sister's murderer, who sank with the body of his victim to the bottom of the river.

NEW YORK, October 12.—The old board of directors of the Western Union telegraph company was re-elected, with the exception of Charles Loveer, who was elected in place of R. Z. Kennedy, deceased.

OMAHA, October 15.—The democratic state convention to-day nominated Thos. O'Day for justice of the supreme court, and Dr. Slicker and Fred L. Harris for regents of the state university. The convention in its platform endorsed Cleveland's administration and reaffirmed the principles of the national platform of 1884.

LONDON, October 12.—Fordham, the noted jockey, is dead.

SAVANNAH, October 12.—At 1 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the cargo of the British steamship Hugh London, loaded for Liverpool, and is burning fiercely. The vessel has four thousand bales of cotton on board.

WILKESBARRE, October 12.—The dead body of a girl, supposed to be Anna Sofinski, 19 years old, who left her home in Nanticoke three weeks ago, was found this afternoon on the mountain side near Plymouth. There is evidence that she was murdered. An investigation will be made at once by the coroner.

He Caught Her.

Miss Annie L. Wood, handsome and only nineteen years old, daughter of Amos Wood, a wealthy Philadelphian, eloped recently with her father's coachman, Howard Wagner, and went to Niagara Falls. The girl obtained employment as a domestic with a family named Smythe. She left there in a short time and went with Wagner to a hotel near Suspension Bridge, on the Canadian side, where they lived as man and wife, obtained money to pay their board by pawning Miss Wood's jewelery.

On Thursday of last week Mr. Wood located his daughter, and he surprised her at the hotel Sunday. He besought her to return home, promising forgiveness. By a ruse Wagner and the girl left the hotel in a hack and were driven to the American side, where they were married by a Justice of the Peace. Wagner gave his name as Howard N. Smith. The irate father followed and found the couple as they were coming out of the house of the justice. He found that his daughter had been married under a fictitious name. He took her aside and persuaded her to go with him. When the two left Niagara Falls Sunday night for the East a seemingly perfect reconciliation had taken place.

GIVE THEM A CHANCE.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend on this for certain.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after testing its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human sufferings, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full direction for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 1911yeow —Friday was not one of the most agreeable days of the season. The crowd in town was very large, though perhaps there were not as many people here as was expected. Barnum's main circus tent was the largest that was ever pitched in this town and it accommodated the people nicely. The menagerie is a strong attraction, including a variety of the rarest animals. The exhibition in the circus tent was superb. The trained animals are unsurpassed in their intelligence. The vaulting and tumbling was grand and the trapeze performances daring and thrilling. There were a half-dozen clowns, skilled bare-back riders and wire walkers. The statuary was beautifully grouped and graceful. After five or six exciting races the attack of Indians on the overland stage and their repulse by the cowboys ended the entertainment.

—We are happy to state to our friends in Lock Haven that Rev. Dr. Laurie, of this place, is not "so ill that visitors are debarred from his presence." The report in the Democrat is a mistake. He has an affection of the throat which prevents him from preaching. He was able to walk out this morning.

A little 4-year-old Louisville girl had her first dream, and was expatiating upon the new found experience and telling it out, when her mother said: "Jennie, tell mamma your dream?" "O pshaw! mamma; you were laying right by me, you ought to know."

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

A Sad Event.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 16.—The president was virtually mobbed on his arrival here last night. Never before was he so jammed, squeezed and crushed in any of the crowds that have awaited him, and when he retired last night it was with a feeling of utter weariness. The presidential party started from the hotel at 10 o'clock this morning, and in half an hour reached the large stand in the centre of Court Square. It was surrounded by 50,000 people, and upon it stood the reception committee, gathered around Judge Henry T. Ellett, of the Chancery court, who had been selected because of his age and his prominence in the community, to make the formal address of welcome. He had only a few moments before finished his remarks and was listening to Mr. Cleveland's response when he was overcome by the heat. The spot was an exposed one and the sun was very strong The judge sat down, and in a few seconds fell from his chair. Dr. Bryant, the president's traveling companion, assisted by Postmaster General Vilas and Colonel Robert F. Looney, caught him as he was in the act of falling to the platform.

Several gentlemen of the entertainment committee who were seated in close proximity, aided in the efforts that were being made to restore him to consciousness. Three or four of the ladies spread their fans and did all in their power to revive him. Water was thrown in his face and stimulants administered. Dr. Kennedy Jones came to the assistance of Dr. Bryant, and the two worked with the prostrate and unconscious form, but without avail. President Cleveland, who had just finished his address, stood looking at the efforts that were being made to revive the venerable jourist, with sad and sympathetic countenance, while Mrs. Cleveland seemed deeply affected.

The presidential party had left the platform before Dr. Bryant sadly arose from over the body and, turning to an acquaintance, remarked: "Let's join the presidential party." In answer to the inquiry, "What is the matter with Judge Ellott?" Dr. Bryant responded: "He fainted and has not yet recovered consciousness." This was said to dispel the shadow of gloom that otherwise might have been cast upon the festivities had the true condition of the stricken man been made known. The president is greatly shocked by the intelligence of the death of Judge Ellett, whom he met for the first time yesterday. He expresses the warmest sympathy with the bereaved family.

Dr. Bryant says he found no signs of life when he reached the unfortunate man's side, but he said nothing until he was relieved a few minutes later by two local physicians. To these he said the judge was dead. The immense multitude who witnessed the incident did not realize that death had come among them. They made a rush for the exposition building, where the reception was being held, leaving to the few friends of the judge the sad duty of carrying his remains across the street, from where they were soon afterwards taken to his home on Shelby street.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland spent the day quietly at Belle Meade mansion, the guests of General Jackson. Accompanied by their hosts, they took a stroll over the beautiful farm, visiting the deer park. While they stood upon a knoll taking in the enchanting beauty of the scene a drove of more than two hundred deer were driven past them in review.

A Freight Wreck.

New York and Chicago limited express and fast line west were detained at the station for some time last night because of a freight wreck near Kittanning point, and mail express east, due in this city at 6 o'clock, did not get in until 9 from the same cause. The accident occurred at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon just west of Kittanning Point. There were various reports as to its magnitude, some to the effect that thirty cars were wrecked. This was a mistake the number being sixteen. Extra 1023, Engineer Jacob Lawson, Fireman J. B. Howard, was coming down the mountain with thirty cars as follows: Eleven laden with Chicago dressed beef, six empty express cars, six empty box cars, six empty emigrant cars, and one loaded car for Altoona. When the train was a short distance west of Allegrippus tower it parted, twelve of the cars remaining at that point. The engine and two cars were detached and the engineer came to the tower at Kittanning Point to report the break.

The rapidity with which the train came down the hill was startling, and before the engineer could get down from the tower where he was making his report, eight empty cars and eight laden with dressed beef crushed into the two cars and engine on the main track. The engine suffered little if any damage and Fireman Howard saved himself by jumping, the injuries received by him consisting of bruises on his left arm and leg. The wreck otherwise was pretty near total. The broken cars were thrown on the north track, thus impeding travel Wrecking crews from Galitzin and Altoona were summoned and after hours of hard work succeeded in clearing the tracks.

Buried in the Ruins.

NEW YORK, October 17.—The four-story building in course of erection at 443 East One Hundred and Fifteenth street, to be used as a school house, tumbled in this afternoon about 4 o'clock and many workmen were buried in the ruins. The building had reached the fourth story. It was intended as a parochial school for the parish of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel. At the time there were over twenty men in the building at work and they were all buried in the ruins. Search was at once commenced and at six o'clock six dead bodies had been taken from the ruins. Four men were taken out seriously wounded and almost suffocated. The supposition is that there are still fourteen men underneath the debris. Most of the workmen were engaged in the lower part of the building at the time of the accident. The side walls fell in immediately after the front wall gave way. The workmen were all Italians and the school house was intended for the education of Italian children. Ladder companies and citizens are searching the ruins for the men still unaccounted for. There are no sounds to be heard from the wreck, and it is supposed those still buried are all dead.

The killed are: John Dunkin, bricklayer; Henry Reinitz, blacksmith; Paul Gillibreth, laborer, and Givolanio Laurea, laborer. Of the others nine were injured but none seriously. All have been accounted for except James McCarthy, a bricklayer, a boy named Burns, and Michael Lannan, a bricklayer, whose friends searched for six hours after the accident in vain. Father Kerner, of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, was fatally injured.

Base Ball Union.

ALTOONA, Oct. 17.—All members of the Base Ball Players' Brotherhood, says the Altoona Times, will refuse to sign for next season. Next Thursday is the first day they can be signed, but they will not sign until the League has recognized their organization. The members of the Brotherhood have all avowed to stand by this action.

Every club except Chicago will be greatly affected. In the Lake City only three players are members of the Brotherhood—Burns, Williamson and Flint. Most of the other members of the club are young and, it is claimed, are afraid to be identified with any combination against the directors. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh are more or less solid. Field, Beecher, Smith and Whitney are the only members of the Pittsburgh nine not in the Brotherhood. Field will join this week.

Although none of the united players will sign, they will all be reserved, so that the League Directors will not be very uneasy until the annual convention is held the second week in November. Then the question of recognizing the Brotherhood will be settled definitely. If the League declines to recognize it then will come the tug of war. If it does come the players are confident of winning, as they are sure that money can easily be raised for the formation of another league.

The Brotherhood will meet on the 24th inst., when some important questions will be discussed, notably how another league can be established in case the National League persists in its opposito the Brotherhood.

A Receiver Takes Charge.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The "great" international encampment was placed in the hand of a receiver this morning. Gen. Bently and other managers of the affair united in the petition to Judge Garnett that a receiver be appointed, and the court granted their petition and appointed Gen. A. L. Chettain, who has figured prominently in the management. The petitioners claimed that the "International Military encampment" was a corporation under the laws of the state of Illinois, having a capital stock of $10,000, of which $9,000 was held by the petitioners and $1,000 by Governor Beveridge as trustee; that in carrying on the enterprise they contracted a large indebtedness, which they were unable to meet, and they feared that the legal proceedings were about to be taken against them to attempt to collect the same. But if the assets of the corporation were seized by the various creditors they would be wholly insufficient to cover the indebtedness. They made the military encampment a party to the bill and prayed for the court to take the property under its control and asked that the business be wound up.

Another Good Man Gone.

Special to The Altoona Times.

PHILIPSBURG, October 17—C. G. Hirlinger, one of the most extensive clothing merchants of this place, died yesterday afternoon at Snow Shoe, this county, where he had gone Saturday evening. He was a man well liked, a prominent Mason, and leaves a wife and three children. The remains will be interred here, they having been brought up on the Beech Creek Railroad yesterday at noon. Mr. Hirlinger owned considerable real estate here and elsewhere.

Spanish Alertness.

LONDON, October 18.—It is quite obvious that the French government is uneasy at the promptness with which Spain prepared to dispatch troops to Africa on the first report of the death of the sultan of Morocco, without waiting for any confirmation of the rumor. Such haste was, it is true, unusual on the part of Spain and showed a vigor on the part of the regency little in consonance with the customary procrastinating method of Spanish politicians.

The French journals give prominence to the fact that Spanish commerce with Morocco is only one-twentieth as great as that of France with the same nation, of course not alluding to the circumstances that the amount of England's trade with Morocco renders that of France insignificant in comparison. While the latter nation disclaims any hostility toward Spain for watching over the interest she has on one side of the Moorish border, France intimates that her Algerian domain was purchased by the expenditure of too much blood and treasure to permit of its integrity being even menaced.

There is no doubt that the declaration of M. Flourens to Senor Albareda, the Spanish embassador at Paris, that France would answer any military demonstration by the dispatch of a French fleet to the coast, was the reason that the Spanish troops did not embark for Centa, Senor Sagasta, who was absent when his colleagues decided upon the movement, having countermanded the order on the receipt of a telegram from the Spanish ambassador at Paris.

The statements concerning the heir to throne of Morocco are as contradictory as the interests of that country's neighbors are conflicting. One account describes him as a fine youth who has already shown prowess in the field and gives promise of exhibiting more than ordinary mental ability, while another "possesser of the most accurate information" pronounces him an imbecile and in mind little better than idiot. It is significant that the French journals lay stress upon the "badly arranged" Algerian frontier, and the fierceness and evil disposition of the neighboring tribes, whose frequent incursions and pillaging of the natives under French protection call for speedy reprisals and consequently an increase of the French army of occupation.

Secretary Bayard Moving Slowly.

WASHINGTON, October 18.—Secretary Bayard was seen last night and asked to set at rest the contradictory statements relative to the policy of the state department on the fisheries question. He said:

"This matter is not one that can be settled in a breath, but is one of such gravity and importance that time should be taken in consideration. The state department proposes to take all proper time to consider it, and does not intend to blunder through in haste. It is a question which has been entertained through the history of this country for a hundred years, for it is really a question as to whether our relations with Canada shall be neighborly and friendly, or whether they shall be the other extreme; with both nations standing ready to take advantage of the other.

"The policy of the state department has not been determined on fully, and can only be as the case develops itself. Personally I wish and hope to settle the thing amicably, but the United States must have her rights. What are the rights to American fishermen in Canadian waters? When that has been determined, then and then only will I be able to determine upon what course is best to secure these rights."

The Knights of Labor.

MINNEAPOLIS, October 18.—At the afternoon session of the Knights of Labor convention the committee on law reported favorably on the subject of establishing a department of woman's work, and the plan was adopted without opposition. Further action makes it compulsory on the part of the general executive board to issue a charter for a national trades assembly where locals, desiring it, comply with law, instead of having advisory power as now. Another adopted recommendation was to the effect that a trade local attached to a state or district assembly may, on payment of all dues, and assessments, leave the body to which it is attached and join the national district of the trade, and also retire in the same manner providing it returns to the body to which it formerly belonged.

A resolution to strike out "temporarily tending bars" from among the disqualifications of membership was lost. Amendments were adopted providing that members in arrears six months be dropped from the rolls and making the maintenance of an assistance fund optional instead of compulsory.

It had been intended to hold an evening session in order to dispose of business by to-morrow noon, but as the hall was engaged for a concert, the session was abandoned. A good deal remains to be done and much will have to be dropped unless the time of adjournment is delayed.

Suffering People.

MONTREAL, October 18.—Two families named Russell and Rumbolt have, after exertion, escaped the semi-starvation of Labrador and reached Montreal. The story they tell of life in Labrador is very painful. The people are in a condition of semi-starvation. They are slaves of dealers who never allow them to see a shilling, well knowing that if they had a little money they would fly the country as from a land of pestilence. Mrs. Russell, a young and very intelligent woman, to-day made the following statement, to which the two men lent their assent:

"We are here because we could live there no longer. We are almost starving We have often been hungry. The fishing has fallen away. The people can't live and they can't get away because they never receive a shilling in their lives. We are paid for our fish in goods and clothes. We have to pay three prices for everything. The fishing lasts only three months, and we have to live the other nine months out of the profits of the three. The fishing has fallen away so that there is barely enough made to keep us during the summer. The winter is the worst season, for then there is nothing to do. The government gives a little assistance, but what we need is flour, peas and molasses. Meat I did not eat during the last twenty-five years. Such a thing is never thought of.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

In Hymen's Bonds.

In the Tyrone Daily Herald, Tuesday, this brief announcement was made—

The announcement was correct and it was done in handsome style. We had the pleasure of witnessing the event in St. John's Roman Catholic church at 8 o'clock a. m. Wednesday. The Bellefonte young lady was Miss Kate McLaughlin; the groom was Mr. Cyril Schell, who resides in Tyrone. They were able assisted by Miss Christina Cedars, bride'smaid, and Mr. Walter Gerrity as groom'sman. Rev. P. McArdle officiated impressively. In this connection we must allude to the fact that Mr. Walter Gerrity is called upon very frequently to act as groomsman and seems to be almost an indispensable part of such affairs. Why not try the bridegroom part, Walter?

The bride looked very lovely. She and her bride'smaid are blondes. The bride's dress was navy blue with bonnet to match and the bride'smaid's attire was seal brown with bonnet of corresponding shade. The groom wore the regulation black. He looks to us as if he would make an admirable husband, and the legion of friends of the bride here knows that she will fill the part of wife with the perfect tact and efficiency which will make the lives of both of them full of happiness. This is the future we hope they will have together with plenty of prosperity.

The ceremony in the church was witnessed by many interested friends and acquaintances. After leaving the church there was a wedding breakfast and reception.

The happy couple went to Tyrone on the 10.35 train, where an elegant dinner awaited them, to be followed by a reception that evening.

The "Republican" in Missouri.

Mr. Luther N. Musser, formerly of this county and who read law with Messrs. Clem. and Al. Dale, is now practicing his profession in Tuscumbia, Missouri. Under date October 13, he writes:

Edward T. Tuten, Editor of the Bellefonte Republican, Bellefonte, Pa.

DEAR SIR:—Please find enclosed postal note for $2.00 subscription to the REPUBLICAN and Philadelphia Press another year. I cannot do without either paper for in the columns of the REPUBLICAN I learn all the news of Centre county—the home of my childhood—as correctly (though not as rapidly, perhaps) here in Southwest Missouri as though I lived with my father upon the old homestead.

I notice politics in the Keystone State is waging warm; hence the importance of having the Philadelphia Press for general State news.

I can assure you both papers are welcome visitors to me, and very little of their contents escapes my observation.

I am favorably impressed with the Republican candidates for county offices and do hope they will be elected to a man. Keep it red hot.

Yours very truly,
L. N. MUSSER.

From Other Counties.

Camp No. 56, Patriotic Sons of America, will be instituted at Glasgow, Cambria county, on Friday night. Applications have been forwarded to headquarters for camps at Penfield, Clearfield county, and Uniontown, Fayette county.

Clarence Bubb, a 17-year old resident of Williamsport, while on the river on Friday evening looking for ducks, had a portion of his right arm blown off by the accidental discharge of his gun. Should the arm be saved the hand will be of little future service.

Judge W. J. Baer, of Somerset county, and his two daughters drove from their home in Somerset to Bedford in the fore part of the week, and started on the return trip Saturday. While on the way the horses ran off, the pole broke from the carriage, and the judge, who held the lines, was pulled out and so badly cut on the head and bruised on the shoulders that he was unconscious for several hours.

Fire at Williamsport on Saturday destroyed the finishing room and wareroom of Kline Brothers & Co., furniture manufacturers, the large frame building owned by the Novelty Mill company, J. O. Rogers & Co. and Scully & Hotchkiss as a planing mill, etc., and a brick building owned F. Powell and occupied by F. Gundrum & Co's planing mill. Everything totally destroyed. Loss, $49,000; insurance $29,200.

Annual Inspection.

On Monday morning a party of sixteen officers and employes of the Pennsylvania railroad company left Philadelphia for an examination trip of the company's lines. The party reached Altoona about 4 o'clock the same afternoon, and immediately proceeded to an inspection of the railway shops and the yard. They remained at the Logan house over night and next morning resumed their journey westward. The trip will extend over 2,524 miles of road and the following cities will be included in the route: Altoona, Pittsburg, Fort Wayne, Muskegon, Grand Rapids, Chicago, Richmond, Indianapolis, Louisville, Cincinnati and Columbus.

The party consists of George B. Roberts, president; Frank Thompson, second vice president; J. N. Du Barry, third vice president; John P. Green, fourth vice president; Wistar Morris, Alexander M. Fox, N. Parker Shortridge, Henry D. Welsh, John Price Wetherill, Wm. L. Elkins and Wm. Thaw, of Pittsburg, directors; C. E. Pugh, general manager; John C. Wilson, real estate agent; James A. Logan, assistant general solicitor; John M. Harding, chief clerk to the president, and D. S. Newhall, assistant secretary, who has general charge of all arrangements. They will return east on Saturday, October 29th.

A Big Minstrel Show.

A. G. Field & Co's Operatic Minstrels, according to all reports, is the finest minstrel company now showing in any State. It stands in the front rank with Haverly's, McNish, Johnson & Slamis; Sweatman, Rice and Fagan's; Wilson & Rankin's; Duprex and Benedicts and Hi. Henry's Minstrels. The register of this show is immense, the following celebrities being included, viz., the Occidental Quartette; Bulgar & Jenkins Grotesque Dancers, vocalists and Comedians; the Premium 4 Comedians, vocalists and dancers: Wm. Junker Euphonium Soloist; the 4 composers, musical artists; Chas. Fletcher, tenor and clarionets; J. Weckfield, basso; Ed. Brown, soprano vocalist; Ed. Harvey, tenor vocalist; Frank Farrell and Al. G. Field, comedians, and many others equally well known on the minstrel stage. This fine aggregation of talent will be presented to the Bellefonte public at Humes' Hall, Oct. 31st, one night only. Seats on sale one week in advance at Sourbeck's store.

—As the new buildings being erected advance toward completion they become more pleasing in appearance. The Reynolds bank building with its handsome tower will be an ornament to that corner. The walls of the Arcade building are advancing rapidly toward the third story, and some idea of the appearance can be gained. The ornamental iron girders upon which the upper walls rest are about as elegant in design as anything in this section. Crider's store room in his new building seems almost finished and the steam heat apparatus is being put in. The front of the room will be all of glass admitting a flood of light way to the rear of the store, which is 150 feet deep.

—Mr. R. A. Beck is not only a skilled manipulator of the scissors and razor, but he also possesses quite a vast fund of useful, practical knowledge, and has very decided opinions on almost everything except politics. This knowledge extends into the science of medicine and he knows the proper treatment for almost every human ailment. Then as to the art of cooking he is a veritable oracle, and his views in regard to how long meat should be kept before being eaten and how it should be prepared differ radically from the ordinary belief and practice. Mr. Beck knows all about what to eat and how to eat it. He has practiced this for forty years.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has been experimenting for some time with an automatic whistle, the object of which is to give the signal at grade crossings, whether the engineer be awake or sleeping. The device is a simple one, consisting simply of a bar or lever connecting with the whistle, and extending down to within one inch of the track. At a point six hundred yards from the crossing a protection is placed which, striking against the lever, starts the whistle. Should the engineer be asleep, the shrill note of the whistle directly over his head would undoubtedly awaken him.

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT

INVALUABLE for LADIES and CHILDREN.

You'll find it good to regulate
The organs of both small and great;
It checks Sick Headache, and the woe
That sad Dyspeptics ever know,
In TARRANT'S SELTZER people find,
A remedy and treat combined.

We indorse all the proprietors have said relative to the merits of Salvation Oil. It is the greatest cure on earth for pain. Price only 25 cents.

Yarborough House, Raleigh, N. C.

I have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for my children: it is the golden remedy. —Mrs. Dr. Blackwell.

—The base ball season is at last ended, or nearly so. Thank Heaven for that! The preachers and the statesmen may now stand some chance of a better show in the columns of the daily press, especially as the prize-ring happens to be rather dull just now.

The above from an excellent paper, the Catholic Review, is unjust, and the religious press should never deal unfairly. The daily press, as a rule, is governed by the demands of its readers, but, so far as this paper is concerned, we can say that we print ten times as much about the religious interests of the community as we do about its sporting events, and never in our history have we recorded a prize-fight except to condemn it.

—Tyrone was more than ordinarily lively on Monday night, and when the editor of the Herald inquired into the reason for it he discovered that two or three citizens of Bellefonte were in that town. Bellefonte contains the concentrated liveliness of the entire State, and as it is so centrally located Tyrone, its next door neighbor, gets the benefit of it whenever this liveliness effervesces and runs over. Fortunate thing for Tyrone, that it is not located near Pittsburg or the Quaker City, for in that event it might dry up and be blown away by the first passing zephyr.

—The residence of John Ardell, Jr., always handsome, has been yet further beautified with trimmings of red paint on the roof and other parts of the building. It is a tasteful addition to the appearance.

—The game of lawn tennis continues to receive attention from such of its votaries as assemble for the purpose of playing it at the court on East Lamb street.

Personal regard to the rules of living, and the judicious use of that superior alterative, Laxador, will insure that inestimable blessing—health.

Cutting teeth is one of the hardest pieces of work the baby does; why not then help it out by allowing it occasional doess of Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup.

RUINS IN NEW YORK.

EXCAVATING THE FALLEN BUILDING FOR A DEAD BODY.

Father Kirner Still Unconscious—The Doctors Say He Cannot Live—The Injured Doing Well—Plans of the Building—Scenes at the Ruins.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Hundreds of curious people gathered at the scene of the schoo house disaster in One Hundred and Fifteenth street, between First and Second avenues today. They tried to crowd up close to the ruins, but a strong squad of police from the Twenty-ninth precinct managed to keep them at a distance. It was announced that a joiner, who had been at work on the building, was missing, and was supposed to have been buried in the ruins near where the elevator stood.

Then the excitement, which was so strong last night, began anew, and the work of gathering a gang of laborers was begun at once. They were put to work clearing away the debris. That the man's body is in the cellar is almost beyond doubt, as he has not been at his home or seen since yesterday by his acquaintances. He was a Swede and reported to a boss carpenter every morning before going to work. This he did not do today.

Father Monselle, the young English assistant at the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, who so roundly abused the police and firemen last night, said when told about the missing man: "I hope there is a body there, just to show the firemen I was right. I said there was a man there, but they, in their incompetency, knew better."

The boy Brown, who was supposed to be in the ruins, returned home about midnight. The Rev. Father Salcer was in the building less than five minutes before it fell, and had a narrow escape. The priest's house, which stood between the church and the school house, is badly damaged, the roof and ceiling having been riddled with falling brick. All the injured are doing well except Father Kirner, who is still unconscious. The five doctors who are in attendance say he cannot live.

SCENE AT THE RUINS.

Superintendent D'Oench, of the department of buildings, was found in his office, Sixty-seventh street and Third avenue, at about 9 o'clock this morning. He was busy hearing the reports of the inspectors, but accorded the reporter an interview. When asked about the accident at the school building in East One Hundred and Fifteenth street, he said he did not know the extent or nature of it until he read the papers today and had not as yet made any official investigation, but would do so at the earliest possible moment. The plans for the building were filed on Aug. 30, and the application was denied by the acting superintendent Sept. 1, but were afterward approved on Sept. 6. William I. Martin was the inspector of the district in which the building was erected. He had not even made an unfavorable report of the building. The plans are very simple, foundation walls twenty-four inches, the walls above the foundation sixteen inches, which is more than the law requires. There are girders in the center of the building, thirteen on each floor, from the basement to the top. On Oct. 11 an application was made to Superintenpent D'Oench to place another story on the building. The application was denied. Mr. D'Oench said that it was a strange coincidence that he had the papers in his hand and was looking over the plans of this building just before the disaster took place.

As to whether the families of the killed and injured could sue the church authorities, the superintendent said that that was a matter purely legal, and one he could not answer. He would make a further investigation today and obtain as many witnesses as possible who could give any reliable information as to the manner in which the building was constructed and the materials used. The plans, he said, were drawn by a most competent architect, Mr. L. J. O'Connor, and he could not understand how the accident could happen if the specifications were properly carried out.

List of the killed and wounded are as follows:

Senator McPherson's Letter.

TRENTON, Oct. 19.—Senator McPherson was seen this morning respecting the letter against him by Henry S. Little. The senator said he was just leaving the city on important business, which would require his absence for several days. He had not seen nor read the letter, except as it appeared in brief in the morning papers. He intended reading it at length, and if he discovered anything in it that was not a rehash of political charges ten years old and long since exploded, and which Little had been over two years in inventing a reply for, he would give the public all the information they would want about it.

TO SEEK ADMISSION.

Territories That Want to Be Joined to the Union.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—A special from Washington to The Inter-Ocean says: There will be a more earnest effort to secure the admission of territories as states this winter than there has been for some years. Delegate Toole, of Montana, who is here, thinks that Montana, Dakota, New Mexico and Washington territory will all seek admission, and he predicts that in an omnibus bill they will accomplish their object. He does not add Utah to the list of territories which will apply for statehood, but it is evident that Utah will be one of the most earnest applicants. The new movement as to polygamy will have strong support. It may be doubted, however, whether on the eve of a presidential election any of the territories will be admitted.

Vigilance Committee on the War Path.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 19.—There has been another outbreak by horse thieves in De Kalb county, and the vigilance committee is in pursuit. In forty-eight hours over fifteen head of horses have been taken from a radius of as many miles just east of the east line of this county, and the report is that other portions of the country have been visited.

Mayor Roche's Veto.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—In the city council last night Mayor Roche vetoed the ordinance repealing the franchise of the Equitable Gaslight company, which involves $10,000,000 of stock, held chiefly by eastern parties. A motion to reconsider the vote on the repeal was made and carried.

The Training Squadron's Next Cruise.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 19.—The training squadron has been ordered to leave here on Thursday for New York, where a few days will be spent, after which the vessel will proceed to Norfolk for repairs preparatory to going on a winter cruise to the West Indies.

General Butler Willing.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Capt. Black telegraphed to The Arbeiter Zeitung from New York that Gen. Ben Butler had declared himself willing to assist counsel for the defense of the Anarchists in taking their case before the United States supreme court.

The Weather.

The stock market opened firm on buying for London account. Prices advanced in the first few minutes ¼ to ¾ per cent., but this was followed at the first call by free selling on the announcement of the failure of a large banking institution on the other side. The selling continued at intervals up to midday. At the hour named the decline ranged from ¼ to 2½ per cent. After midday a portion of this was recovered under the lead of the Vanderbilts and St. Paul, which were quite actively bought.

OUR election this year should be decided on the broad ground of public policy. A Republican victory this year will foreshadow Democratic defeat in 1888. It is not a question of men but of principle. The Democrats succeeded through deception and fraud in 1884, shall they do so in 1888? Mr. Cleveland in some things is better than his party, in others is considerably worse, and in none proves able to resist those who are behind him. The tendencies of the party, and its resistless influence over any official who consents to accept office at its hands, ought to render its defeat certain, even if it could find a saint or sage willing to be its candidate, and could contrive to nominate him

ONE of the proudest men in Washington to-day is Commissioner Oberly. He has downed the Virginia and Ohio Clubs in their rebellion on Civil Service, is sustained by his two colleagues, and has the official endorsement of the New York Mugwump Reform association. What greater honor can one man achieve? True it don't reduce the price of bread stuffs, or relieve any burdens, but then Oberly is satisfied and correspondingly proud, and he is a part of the administration that is seeking praise.

THE Daily Democrat intimates that we should apply the question, "Why do they trifle with this fellow?" to the Sharpe case. We think so, too, and hereby ask, "Why do they trifle so much with Briber Jacob Sharpe?" To do so is a disgrace to the judiciary of New York State in the country, But one trifle don't excuse another, Mr. Furey; and all the trifling in the world with Briber Jacob Sharpe will not condone the offense of trifling with Murderer McCabe.

INDIANAPOLIS was the first city visited by the President in his "swing around." It held its municipal election last week and went Republican by a largely increased majority. A fair indication of what is coming. The rumor that an attempt was made to wreck the Presidential train near Memphis, may have some foundation, but it is regarded almost universally as a slim attempt to produce scenic effect in the last act of an exceedingly stupid play.

KARL KUHL, who is at the head of the Personal Liberty League of Philadelphia, was made a citizen three years ago, and now boasts as the official representative of 336 societies, of being able to wield "the balance of power" that will bring about the repeal of the Sunday laws and the total secularization of the Sabbath. The naturalization laws have been prostituted in making such man an American citizen.

CONGRESS will be urged this winter to pass some measure looking to the correction of the present system of heating railroad cars. It undoubtedly has the power to legislate on this subject, and the experience especially of the past year has fully demonstrated that the stove must go, and some other means of heating be devised that will insure greater safety to the traveling public.

MRS. JAMES BROWN POTTER, the New York dame who has made somewhat of a furore in London and Paris by her appearances on the stage, arrived in New York on Sunday. The Winter season will be spent in that city, where she will be the leading dramatic attraction. Her Worth costumes fill forty-three trunks.

THIS is an era of large sales. A syndicate purchased the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, then the Western Union bought its telegraph company, and now the Brewers' Association has obtained the franchise of the Democratic party. What next?

A WASHINGTON correspondent says: If the reader will reflect for one moment I know he will endorse my conclusion that this administration is one of the huge shams of the age. It came into power with flying banners inscribed all over with the word "reform" and with promises as thick as the forest leaves, of benefits that should follow the "turning out of the rascals." The same vote that elected President Cleveland gave him forty three majority in the House of Congress. Now behold the result. Nearly three fourths of the administrative term has expired, and not a single measure of National importance has been passed. Mention if you can what has benefitted the people outside of the regular routine, or marked this administration with any characteristic feature. It cannot be done. The whole administration of Cleveland thus far has been purely negative. All promises of "Reform" were long since forgotten. The great ambition seems to be to flutter for a while in the public gaze, and then this administration will pass down and out as one of the most unmitigated failures on record.

Weather Proverbs for October.

Boston Journal.

Much rain in October, much wind in December.

A good October and a good blast,
So blow the hog-acorn and the mast.

If October brings heavy frosts and winds, then will January and February be mild.

When it freezes and snows in October, January will bring mild weather; but if it is thundering and heat lightning, the winter will resemble April in temper.

Warm October, cold February.

As the weather in October, so will it be in the next March.

Doctor's Bills.

Nearly all diseases originate from inaction of the liver, and this especially the case with chills and fever, intermittent fevers, and malarial diseases. To save doctor's bills and ward off disease take Simmons Liver Regulator, a medicine that increases in popularity each year, and has become the most popular and best endorsed medicine in the market for the cure of liver or bowel diseases.—TELEGRAPH, Dubuque, Iowa.

—The Lock Haven Democrat says Elias Luse & Son's planing mill at Millheim, this county, was destroyed by fire last Saturday, the 15th inst. Most of the machinery and the finished work on hand, such as doors, sashes, etc., were saved. Loss about one thousand dollars.

The Leaders in Oregon.

T. K. Bolton, Druggist Ashland, Oregon, writes as follows in regard to the Gilmore Remedies:—"I am very much pleased with your remedies They give fine satisfaction. The Magnetic Elixir is one of my leaders; the Aromatic Wine is a very excellent article; and the Pile specific and Neuralgia Cure are all you claim for them." Among the hundreds of remedies for affections of the throat and lungs there is none to equal Gilmore's Magnetic Elixir. In all cases of coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma, etc., it affords instant and gratifying relief.

An Old Nurse's Thirty Years Experience.

An old nurse of 30 years experience says that she has never used a wine that has had such a pleasing effect on her patients as that made by Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J. It is a pure article and people have confidence in it. Ask any noted physician. For sale by druggists.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a purely vegetable preparation, being free from injurious ingredients. It is peculiar in its curative power.

ORPHAN'S COURT SALE.—By virtue of an order issued out of the Orphan's Court of Centre county there will be exposed at public outcry on the premises in Curtin township, Centre county, Pa., about one mile west of Romola, on at 2 o'clock p. m., the following desirable real estate—the property of Job M. Lucas, late of Curtin township, deceased, described as follows: On the north by lands of David McCloskey and Job W. Packer, on the east by lands of Conrad Singer, on the south by lands of David Brickley and J. P. Dehaas and on the west by Joseph McCloskey's heirs and Webster Butler containing about seventy-five acres—be the same more or less. There are about 35 or 40 acres in cultivation and the balance in fine growing young timber. A good orchard of choice fruit, of different varieties, on the farm. Several never-failing springs of water on the premises—one of which is at the door of the house.

TERMS OF SALE: Ten per cent. when the property is knocked down; one-third of balance at confirmation of sale; one-third in one year and one-third in two years. Deferred payments to be secured by bond and mortgage on the premises—with interest.

Garrett Retires.

BALTIMORE, October 12.—The board of directors of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company held their regular meeting to day. The county and state, as well as the private stockholders, were fully represented. The board authorized the payment of five per cent. dividend on the stock of the Washington branch. The recommendation of the finance committee, that no dividend be paid on the stock of the main line for the past six months, was adopted. The sale of the Baltimore and Ohio telegraph to the Western Union was ratified. The railroad company receives for this property $5,000,000 in stock of the Western Union and an annual rental of $60,000. The following letter was then read from Mr Robert Garrett, resigning the presidency of the Baltimore and Ohio company.

BALTIMORE, Md., October 9.—To the Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company—Gentleman: It is well known to many of you that it has been for some time my fixed desire and intention to withdraw, when I properly could, from the labors which have been imposed upon me by my official position as president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company. But as you are also aware, the policy and undertakings of the company, which I necessarily assumed at the time I accepted the presidency, were such as to render it improper for me, with a due regard for the interests involved, to withdraw from their prosecution. Now, however, that arrangements have been made which, as I hope and believe, will secure many of the ends for which we have so long struggled, and the business and finances of the company being in a sound and satisfactory condition, I am in a position to tender you, as I do hereby, my resignation as president of the company. I thank you for the courtesy and consideration which you have uniformly extended to me, and I trust you will be able within a brief period to fix upon a proper person to whom I may surrender the trust with which you have honored me. I am very respectfully.

[Signed] ROBERT GARRETT.

After a few feeling remarks by Mr. McKenny White, a city director, and Mr. William F. Burns, president pro tem, who presided over the meeting in the absence of Mr. Garrett, the resignation was accepted.

Boulanger has his Suspicions.

PARIS, October 12.—Gen. Boulanger, in an interview to-day, denies any complicity in the Caffarel affair, and challenged the most searching investigation. He deplores the scandal as likely to have a depressing effect upon the country just when a revival of patriotism is taking place. The general believes that Mme. Limousin was sent to him from two different quarters, in order to lay a trap for him.

The most recent development in the scandal is the discovery, at the house of General Caffarel, of a summary of the plans to mobilize the 17th army corps. This summary is the same that the Figaro published. A memorandum of various sums received, presumably for decorations, has been found at Count d'Aulau's house. It is reported that the latter has gone to Brussels or Berlin and that he declared he had no desire to be imprisoned before his trial, but that he would appear on the day of the trial. The arrest of many prominent people is imminent.

The President and His Trip.

OMAHA, October 12.—The president's ride from Sioux City was one complete ovation, and while riding through this city in a carriage covered with roses he was greeted every where with cheers and salutes. A feature of the procession escorting him was a company of full blooded Indian youths from the Genoa Indian industrial school with a band of Indian musicians.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 12.—The president's Omaha entertainers seemed very unwilling to let him go. The train was fully three-fourths of an hour late when the last of the excursionists got aboard. Mrs. Cleveland's table was quite buried beneath baskets of bouquets of flowers sent in by the ladies and lady's associations as Sioux City and Omaha.

Disastrous Storms.

NOGALES, ARZ., October 12.—One of the most disastrous storms ever known on the southern coast of Mexico occurred on the 7th and 8th inst. The city of Quelito a town of more than 8,000 people, was totally destroyed and many lives lost. Telegrams give accounts of most affecting scenes—many women, children and men floundering in the stormy current and crying for help, which was not at hand. No particulars are obtainable, as the wires are down. Dispatches state the supposition is that there have been a number of wrecks in the gulf, but the facts cannot be ascertained. Later dispatches to the Associated Press report the entire coffee and orange crop in Sinaloa destroyed.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

KANSAS CITY, October 13.—An accommodation train on the Missouri Pacific railroad left Independence, Mo., this morning crowded with passengers for Kansas City. Near Rock Creek station in a few miles this side of Independence, the accommodation was telescoped in the rear by the Wichita express, consisting of eighteen coaches, all heavily loaded. A lady standing on the platform of the station was struck in the obdomen and killed by debris. Circuit Court Clerk Noland was badly injured. Mat. Chapman, baggage master of the accommodation, suffered a broken leg and other injuries, and Edward Milton, of Independence, was seriously hurt. The accident was caused by a failure of the train dispatcher to notify the conductor of the express that the accommodation had preceded him. Most of the passengers on both trains were coming to see President Cleveland.

The President and His Trip.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., October 14.—The president's special train, preceded by a pilot train, passed here at ten minutes past 5 this morning. The passengers were all asleep. A crowd of two or three hundred persons was at the station to see the train. Engines and conductors were changed here, but the transfer was made just outside the town, and the train passed the station without stopping. The trainmen report that people were up and waiting for the train at all way stations during the night.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., October 14.—The ride to-day was through a typical Arkansas region. There were half a dozen little frontier villages but for the most part groves of blasted forest, giants of living oaks, gums and cypress bounded their view. Interspersed were openings for corn and cotton fields, in the latter of which picking operations were going on, and there were casual saw mills and lumber yards. The prevalent dwelling was of logs or boards, in front of which blonde youngsters were drawn up in line for review and around which in default of flags and banners, hung the family wash. Hogs of shadowy proportions and armed with incredible snouts, glided between trees and wild turkeys were sometimes scared up.

The first sign of the approach to Memphis was the appearance on the train (no one knew how they got there) of handsome lithographs of the president and Mrs. Cleveland, the allegorical bordering of which contained figures in the costumes of the ancient Egyptian Memphis, with representations of the industries of the modern namesake. Later boquets of flowers, surrounded by snowy cotton balls, made their appearance on Mrs. Cleveland's table. The train reached West Memphis at 2.40 p. m.

Upon arriving at West Memphis the party boarded the steamer Kate Adams, where they were welcomed by the committee. The Adams passed up the river, the artillery on the east bank firing a salute. After allowing the president to view the river improvements the distinguished guests were landed at the custom house. When the president and Mrs. Cleveland were seated in their carriage the throngs of people in their enthusiasm broke over all bounds, carrying away the colored militia guards stationed to keep the way open. The progress to the hotel was by no means the orderly proceeding it was designed to be. A miscellaneous procession of trucks, market wagons and 10,000 negroes, mixing itself up with the carriages of the committees and the guests.

This evening 200 ladies and gentlemen escorted the president and his party to see the fireworks. Returning to the hotel, the president held a reception and at 11 o'clock he was serenaded by the Jackson Democratic club.

The President's Trip.

KANSAS CITY, October 13.—This morning the president and party were taken for a drive throught the city, and the places of interest were pointed out to them. A brief pause was made at the exposition building, but the president did not alight. From this point the party proceeded to the site of the projected building of the Young Men's Christian Association, of which the president laid the corner stone. This ceremony was preceded by the singing of hymns, a brief address and prayer by Bishop Hendrex, and a speech by President Cleveland.

This afternoon the president and Mrs. Cleveland ware conducted to the government building where a stand and awning had been erected. Fully fifty thousand people were congregated about this point, the streets as far as visible being packed with humanity. Mayor Kumpf was introduced to the president and made a formal speech of welcome, to which the president replied briefly. At the conclusion of the president's remarks the people were given an opportunity to greet the president and his wife. They passed rapidly through the gangway four abreast and there was little or no handshaking done. Even at this rate the reception continued until 5 o'clock and there was still a number in line who left disappointed. The party returned to the Coates House at the conclusion of the public reception for dinner.

This evening the president and Mrs. Cleveland were entertained at dinner and later viewed the pageant of the "Priests of Pallas." At 11 o'clock the party left for Memphis, very much fatigued with the day's excitement and sight-seeing.

A slight shock of earthquake was experienced in Merthyrtyville, Wales, yesterday.

ROBERT NEILSON Gen'l Supt.

A Strike Nearing an End.

HAZELTON, Pa., October 13.—There is a growing feeling here that the strike of the miners and mine-laborers in the Lehigh region is nearing an end, and that the end will be a victory for the operators. The belief is founded on the fact that the men on strike have not received from the Knights of Labor organization the assistance that was promised them when the order was given for them to lay down their tools and quit work. The representatives of the organization told them they would each receive $1 a day while the strike continued. The men accepted the promise unhesitatingly and in good faith.

Fifteen thousand men joined the strike, and if each one had been given the $1 a day promised the amount thus distributed by the Knights of Labor would up to the present time foot up the total of $360,000. Instead of this, however, not $10,000 have been sent here and distributed, and many of the men and their families are beginning to suffer for want of the necessaries of life. The consequence is that much dissatisfaction exists among them, and it is believed that to-day most of them would return to work at the old wages if the operators would ask them to do so.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth for their approval or rejection by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as an amendment of the constitution of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

AMENDMENT.

Strike out from section one of article eight, the four qualifications for voters which reads as follows:

"If twenty-two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election," so that the section which reads as follows:

"Every male citizen, twenty one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth. If twenty two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election, 'shall be amended, so as to read as follows:

Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at the polling place of the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere:

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least thirty days.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least thirty days immediately preceding the election. The legislature, at the session thereof, next after the adoption of this section, shall, and from time to time thereafter may, enact laws to properly enforce this provision.

Fourth. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for thirty days and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, except at municipal elections, and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people: Provided, That in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election district in which they respectively reside.

Fifth. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States or the State, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State or of the high seas, nor while a student of any college or seminary of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or public institution, except the inmates of any home for disabled and indigent soldiers, who, for the purpose of voting, shall be deemed to reside in the election district where said home is located. Laws shall be made for ascertaining, by proper proofs, the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the Eighteenth Article thereof:

AMENDMENT

There shall be an additional article to said Constitution to be designated as article XIX, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor, to be used as a beverage, is hereby prohibited, and any violation of this prohibition shall be a misdemeanor, punishable as shall be provided by law.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor for other purposes than as a beverage may be allowed in such manner only as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly shall, at the first session succeeding the adoption of this article of the Constitution, enact laws with adequate penalties for its enforcement.

Captain John M. Ward and His Bride.

The Philadelphia Times, on Thursday, contained the following dispatch concerning the marriage of Mr. John M. Ward:

NEW YORK, October 12.—There was no little interest manifested in theatrical and base ball circles to-day when the report gained currency that Miss Helen Dauvray, the well-known actress, and Ex-Captain John M. Ward, shortstop of the New York Base Ball Club, had been quietly married early in the morning. The affair was surrounded with considerable mystery, but nevertheless the report was not slow to gain credence among the people who have noted the marked interest that the young actress suddenly developed in the national game this season, and when it was discerned that in her frequent visits to the Polo grounds she manifested a more than ordinary personal interest in the sturdy captain of the Giants there were plenty of uncharitable people to say that Miss Dauvray was simply using this apparent enthusiasm for outdoor sport to advertise her theatrical efforts for the winter, but better informed persons had cause to know otherwise. On two other occasions the actress traveled from Long Branch and Saratoga to see her favorite club play ball. So pronounced did her feelings grow that she had a handsome silver trophy made at a cost of $500 to be presented to the champion club at the close of the season. The emblem of base ball supremacy is now known as the Dauvray cup.

The wedding of this morning was the fulfillment of an engagement made four months ago, and, although somewhat unexpected, was not an entire surprise to Mr. Ward's friends. On Saturday Ward applied to the New York management for a leave of absence, but did not say what for.

Miss Dauvray was generally supposed to be ill and resting quietly in the country. She had disbanded her company for the season a few weeks ago on account, as it was generally given out, of ill health. Since then nothing had been heard of her, and it was not known that she had recovered her health and returned to the city.

At Miss Dauvray's residence, 49 Park avenue, this morning, it was learned that Mr. Ward came to the house about 7.30 o'clock and had a conference with Miss Dauvray.

Soon after the lady, having hastily gathered together a few articles, left with Mr. Ward in a carriage. Where the vehicle proceeded is not known, although Mr. J. F. Blackhurst, Mr. Ward's intimate friend, who is authority for the statement that the wedding took place, says it occurred at 9 o'clock. A half an hour thereafter the couple took the Pennsylvania Railroad train for an unknown destination.

The Times adds that on Wednesday morning Mr. Ward and his bride reached Philadelphia and took quarters at the Lafayette hotel. They were uncertain as to the length of their stay in that city, but intimated that they might go further West.

The New York Herald devotes more than a column, delightfully written, to a description of the affair. The courtship is thus narrated: Mr. Ward, who is a graduate of Columbia Law School and of cultured mind met Miss Dauvray in an ordinary school social way over a year ago. They were attracted to each other very strongly, and their intimacy ripened so fast that some time in the early part of the year they were betrothed. The future of both was in a measure dependent on professional contracts which they had already formed. Those of Miss Dauvray in particular would interfere with the quiet and repose which they desired for their married life. They therefore agreed that the wedding should be deferred for two years—that is, until Miss Dauvray could complete the present and succeeding dramatic season. Miss Dauvray in the meantime became enamored of baseball, and was daily seen at the Polo Ground contests, applauding the efforts of her promised husband. * * * *

Then came her illness and the declaration of three distinguished physicians that she could not go on with her work on the stage without challenging the danger of epilepsy. Miss Dauvray has an exceedingly nervous constitution, and she has frequently had to be carried from the stage to her bed and her bed to the stage again for many days in succession in order to fulfill her part. On these occasions chloroform alone would have the power to soothe and bring her to repose. A relative of hers, who spoke by authority, said last evening: "This contemplated marriage had not the slightest thing to do with the rupture of Miss Dauvray's contracts. It could not, of course, as the wedding was not to take place for two years to come. Cessation of work was absolutely necessary to her. This was the only reason for her withdrawal from the stage." Miss Dauvray sojourned at nine different watering places during the summer, and up to two weeks ago was planning to spend the winter in Florida.

Her elder brother, however, who had just returned from South America, scouted the idea of so long an engagement between her and Mr. Ward. "If you think enough of each other to marry," said he, "do it now." The time was accordingly changed in pursuance of this advice and the event was fixed for next Spring. Within less than two weeks, however, the need of a change of climate for Miss Dauvray, and the fact that Mr. Ward was called to California by the tyranny of base ball, very naturally suggested that they should go there together, and that they should get married first. The wedding day was again fixed. This time it was to be about the close of the month. Then Mr. Ward's private affairs suddenly assumed a form that compelled him to leave New York considerably earlier than he expected. He hastened on Tuesday to lay his dilemma before his betrothed, and in about the time that it takes to write it they had determined to be married yesterday.

Miss Dauvray was married in 1881 to Mr. Leonard F. Tracy, but was divorced from him after they had lived together a few months.

* * * * *

Mr. Ward is one of the best-known men in the base ball field. He is the founder of the Ball Players Brotherhood, and was until last July captain of the New York team. He has some attainments as a linguist. He proposes, it is said, to connect himself with a prominent law firm soon after his return from his Western tour, and gradually build up a practice while withdrawing little by little from the diamond. His present income is said to be about $8,000 a year. That of Miss Dauvray is several times as much.

The bridal couple will be absent from the city about ten days, probably visiting Washington and some of Mr. Ward's relatives in Pennsylvania. Upon returning here they will start for St. Louis, where the New York nine are to play. Thence they will proceed to San Francisco, where Mr. Ward will again join his club.

There seemed to be a general opinion abroad yesterday that Miss Dauvray would not return to the stage.

Death of a Young Man.

On Sunday, the 9th, Charles Harvey, a son of Mr. Henry Harvey, died at his home in Boggs township, a short distance from Milesburg. His death was caused by typhoid fever. The deceased was a brother of Mr. Howard Harvey, who has been studying medicine with Dr. R. L. Dartt, and we are told that Howard's departure to a medical college was delayed by his brother's serious sickness. Deceased was 19 years of age. He was a young man of the very best qualities of mind and heart. "Indeed," said a friend who knew him well, "it was a benediction for anyone who could be with him." Gentle, loving and ingenuous, he was highly esteemed by all.

The funeral occurred on Tuesday, the officiating minister being Rev. Mr. Ryan, of the Disciple church in Williamsport.

The Fourth Ticket.

On Wednesday afternoon members of the Union Labor party met in the Court House and put a county ticket in the field, which is as follows:

Associate Judge, J. Miles Green, Milesburg; Sheriff, George F. Derr, Boggs township; Treasurer, Thomas M. Way, of Half Moon, Register, James H. Murphy, of Taylor township; Recorder, George W. Young, Milesburg; Commissioners, Geo. R. Speigelmyer, of Gregg township, and John I. Thompson, of Huston township; Auditors, Andrew Gregg, of Potter township and William A. Krise, of Gregg township. It will be noticed that the Union Laborers have chosen a candidate for auditor from both the Republican and Democratic tickets, which will probably help them to elect somebody. Theodore P. Rynder was made chairman of the County committee.

—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, which for years has stood before the public representing that they had a surplus of over $20,000,000, has finally been forced to sell their express business and their telegraph lines to take care of a floating debt, and yesterday passed dividends to the share holders for the first time in many years. The stock of this company which has been selling for a long time at between 175 and 200, fell in value to 100, thus wiping out one half of the estate of the Garretts, one-half of the millions of stock owned by the Johns Hopkins University and one-half of some seven millions owned by the city of Baltimore.

Looking for the Show.

Barnum's show did not arrive Friday morning until 7.30 o'clock and the lateness of its arrival disappointed a multitude of people. It looked very much as if some people were up all night, so early did they appear on hand that morning. But their vigilance was useless, and they went home to breakfast without catching a glimpse even of the avant coureur of Barnum's aggregation.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock there was a vast crowd at the depot straining their vision to catch the first view of the puffing engine. It seemed strange how many people of mature years had errends down town at an early hour. The proprietors of stores and offices were anxious, on this occasion, to come down town and take their boys' places in making fires and opening up the business places.

—The speeches made by the President read as if they had been culled for the purpose from a cyclopedia.—NEWS. Why does the NEWS not give the proper credit to the above quotation? It properly belongs to the Philadelphia Press. But our contemporary is noted for that kind of originality.—Centre Democrat.

It is not often that any newspaper undertakes to criticise this paper, and when they do it once the consequences to them are so awful that they retire and take a rest for six months. We take it for granted that the recent prudent local, J. A. Swavely, has retired and the more verdant and fresh Frank E. Bible has undertaken that role. Frank, we pity you; particularly, because, in this instance, you made a mistake. That item is original in this office. We confess that we do sometimes adopt ideas and words from our distinguished city contemporaries, without giving credit, but that is not one of them. You might have known that by the word "culled," which is a favorite one with us and we do not believe is often used in the Press. Now, the truth is the New York Sun (a Democratic paper, by the way) has led all the papers in this country in exposing the President's plagiarism and it has been, more than any other newspaper, our inspiration on this subject. We wish you better luck next time, Frank, and hope you will continue such comments, as it infuses new interest (to us) in the sometimes dull routine of editorial labors.

—"Forgeman," who lives at Howard and writes to the Tyrone Herald, has this paragraph in Wednesday's issue: "Dating from the first of the present month, a reduction of the price for working scrap seems to be among the necessary evils at this place. Coming, as it does, at the approach of winter, the effects will be more keenly felt, as the blow will fall heavier on men who have families to maintain. Of course, there can be nobody foolish enough to ask the cause of this backaction movement. The boy in his a b ables ought to be able to answer that question. Too much Johnnie Bull iron in the country for the comfort of the people, and yet we have native born Americans, who, by their votes, would flood our country with foreign products, and send their own children out begging for bread. If men who earn their bread by hard knocks, would give this subject a month's serious consideration, and heed not the sayings of those whose God is gold, a different state of affairs would exist."

—The following from the Philipsburg Ledger shows that our friend, Mr. John Kenyon, formerly of this place, is engaging quite extensively in the business affairs and improvements of that town: "Mr. John Kenyon, Supt. of Philipsburg Telephone District and Supt. of electric light and steam heat, has leased the Robt. Taylor Hotel, corner Front and Laurel streets, for a term of seven years. The lower floor will be remodelled and converted into a first-class store room with a large show window. The stairway to the second floor, the entrance to which has heretofore been on Laurel street will be torn away, and a new stairway leading up from Front street, will be erected. The second and third floors will be rented for offices, sleeping apartments, etc. The whole building will be heated with steam and lit with electric light. The Tayler Hotel is one of the handsomest and best buildings in Philipsburg. Its location is admirable for business purposes, being in the heart of the business part of the town."

—Garmans have moved into their new and elegant hotel building, furnishing it in the most elegant and sumptuous style. It only remains for the gas and steam heat fixtures to be put in to render this hotel perfect in every department. This will be done in a few days. People coming to town will find this hotel possessing every modern convenience at the same rates and with the same hearty welcome always given by the Garman's to their patrons.

—The following from the Philadelphia Press, under date of Tuesday, the 11th, from New York City, created some surprise among the Bellefonte friends of the bridegroom: "Theatrical and base ball circles will be stirred by the announcement that Miss Helen Dauvray, the actress, and John M. Ward, until recently captain of the New York Base Ball Club, are to be married to-morrow (Wednesday) morning."

—Richard Irvin, one of the oldest residents of Pennsylvania Furnace, died at his home there on Tuesday morning of this week. He had suffered several paralytic strokes and had been confined to his bed more than a year. The interment took place the next afternoon at Graysville.

—The Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times has frequently severely criticised us, but we are going to compliment him by adopting one of his ideas. He has proposed that the people of Tyrone induce Miss Grace Furey, a talented young elocutionist of Altoona, to give an entertainment in the former town. Now, we propose the same thing for Bellefonte. Miss Grace once lived in Bellefonte, is known here and has recently visited friends in the town. She is giving entertainments with the landable object of securing the wherewithal to complete her education.

—A wedding event occurred in Tyrone on Wednesday of last week in which many people of this county are interested and we get the particulars from the Herald. It occurred at the home of Mrs. J. B. Williams, sister of the bride, who is Miss Mary L. Campbell, of Tribune, Greeley county, Kansas, and formerly of Pine Grove Mills, this county. The groom is H. J. Proffit, also of Tribune, Kansas. The bride and groom, after spending a few weeks in the East, will depart to reside permanently in Kansas.

—Monday, the 10th, is described by the Millheim Journal has having been a decidedly "blue" one in that place because of the number of accidents. Lot Walizer, a small boy, fell from a barrel, breaking his left arm in two places. Victor Luse, also a boy, was thrown from a runaway horse, painfully hurting his right arm. Frank Woomer had one of his fingers mashed by a descending window sash. P. H. Musser, the watchmaker, fell beneath a wagon, breaking his left hand.

—As a great many people are contemplating buying up potatoes for winter use, it would be well to see that they are thoroughly dry before storing away in the cellar. Potatoes sprout more when put in barrels than any other way. This vegetable, like all other kinds, must of necessity have air, and hence it is deprived of this essential requisite when put away in barrels. The safest way is to spread them out on the cellar floor if it is not damp.

—The Centre Democrat professes not to know what is meant by the "upright purity of the bench." It is sad, indeed, that anyone should be compelled to make such a confession, but a confession is better than a pretence to knowledge without its possession. If the Democrat editor would reform politically and lead an upright, consistent, Republican life he might comprehend more fully what purity is in all its bearings and relations.

—There were 500 delegates at the W. C. T. U. convention in Lewisburg. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. Dr. J. R. Loomis, of Lewisburg, and responded to on the part of the convention by Mrs. R. L. Jones, of Philadelphia. The President of the State Union, Mrs. F. L. Swift stated that there are 1054 Unions in the State. Mrs. Wittenmeyer, of Philadelphia, and Miss Frances Willard are among the lecturers.

—Last year Pennsylvania produced seventy-three million tons of coal, of which thirty-seven millions were anthracite, the total value thereof being $93,000,000. It was worth more than all the gold and silver produced in the United States. About two-thirds of all the coal mined in this country is produced in Pennsylvania. Illinois and Ohio are next most important coal producing States.

—Mr. Clell Bamford, of the Bellefonte Nail Works, is very happy, having wedded, on Tuesday evening of last week, Miss Fannie Brenner, of Philadelphia. The happy event occurred at the home of the bride's father in the Quaker City. His bride is an estimable young lady and was a resident of Bellefonte several years ago. The bride and groom have our best wishes for their future prosperity and happiness.

—On Tuesday evening of last week the congregation of Christ church (Episcopal) in Williamsport, tendered a reception to their retiring rector, the Rev. J. H. Hopkins, S. T. D. On behalf of the vestry of the church, Judge Hugh Cummin presented $1,000 to Dr. Hopkins together with an address expressive of the regret which his parishoners felt in parting with him.

Mason & Hamlin Pianos.

The improved method of fastening the strings of pianos, invented by the Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Company a few years since, is unquestionably one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in its tones, as well as more durable, and less liable to get out of tune.

—It was quite unfortunate that the school house at Spring Mills was destroyed by fire on Sunday evening of last week. The origin of the fire cannot be definitely known, but it is supposed that a tramp who was lurking in that vicinity applied the match. The tramps are very convenient members of the community to attribute all crimes to.

The South Penn.

A special dispatch to the Pittsburg Dispatch from Reading, says: George F. Baer, a well-known railroad lawyer of this city, has just returned from Europe, where he was in consultation with Franklin B. Gowen, ex-President of the Reading railroad, at Homburg. As a result of the conference Mr. Baer is now engaged in preparing an answer in the suit by the Pennsylvania railroad against the South Penn railroad in the United States Circuit Court for the southern district of New York. The bill was filed July 5, and the defendants have about 30 days yet in which to make answer. Mr. Baer is now working on that document, and it will be filed before the expiration of the alloted time.

The bill filed by the Pennsylvania asks that defendants be restrained from doing anything that will interfere with the rights of the plaintiff in the South Penn. It is brought against the Vanderbilts, D. C. Mills and all the other South Penn subscribers, who reside in New York, against whom, of course, proceedings could not be brought in the State courts of Pennsylvania. The filing of the answer will be the beginning of a sharp campaign for the construction of the South Penn road.

Mr. Baer feels sure that the road will be built, and that sooner than the Pittsburg public and the people of Western Pennsylvania generally expect.

A Man's Leg Torn Off.

A most horrible accident occurred at Maple Hill, Lycoming county, on Wednesday last, by which David Bankes lost a leg. He was at work on a steam thresher at the time, and the concave not being in the proper position endeavored to kick it down. The rapidly revolving machinery caught his foot, and the entire foot was drawn between the rollers. In order to save his life Mr. Bankes threw the weight of his body back, and by superhuman strength held on until the machinery was stopped. As quickly as possible Dr. Metzger, of Alvira, and Dr. Hull, of Montgomery, were summoned, and they at once amputated the leg seven inches below the knee. The unfortunate man is about 35 years of age, and has a wife and five children. The terrible accident is a severe blow to the stricken family. Mr. Bankes said yesterday that he had kicked the concave into place many times before, but he never met with a mishap. He is getting along as well as could be expected.—Lock Haven Express.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

A Mixture from Milesburg.

Mr. A. T. Boggs has a large force of men at work on his town hall.

Milesburg was almost entirely vacated on Friday, most of the people going to Barnum's show.

Prof. Leathers is proving himself a very efficient teacher.

Miss Flora Grafmyer, daughter of the proprietor of the Ivy Restaurant, of Milesburg, was married on the 12th inst. to a Mr. Peters, of Unionville. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father.

Mr. C. K. Essington is rapidly recovering from his late attack of rheumatic fever.

W. B. Miles & Son just received a very fine stock of Winter goods.

—After considerable talk in reference to the proposed marriage of Miss Mollie Garfield, daughter of the late President Garfield, and Mr. Stanley Brown, the President's private secretary, it is announced that the engagement is broken off. This accounts for the trip of Mrs. Garfield and her daughter to Europe. The sick relative, whom it was said they were going to see, is a myth.

—The Centre County Times reports that the following young gentlemen from this county are attending Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia: S. C. Runkle, Spring Mills; D. G. Smith, Penn Hall; H. H. Thompson, Stormstown; Edward Miller, Rebersburg; S. G. Mattern, Benore; Frank Woods, Boalsburg; J. E. Wasson, Lemont; J. W. Neff, Roland.

—A international military encampment is being held in Chicago. It is conducted on such a rigorous system that the Scandinavian soldiers who are participating have become angry and say they will not play soldier any longer. The other day they became "sulky" and refused to attend a banquet.

Bellefonte Republican,

Cream of the News.

AS GATHERED BY A LIVE REPORTER IN PHILIPSBURG.

The "Union Scout," as produced by home talent and Mr. J. W. Clemson and Frank Harris, was well received by a good-sized audience on Saturday night. Mr. Clemson as the Dutchman and Harris as the Negro were hard to beat and kept the audience in an uproar most of the time.

Is the match factory project "knocked to blue blazes," as so many of the other new enterprises have been?

If somebody falls in some of the many holes in the sidewalks all over town and injures himself, there will be some damages to pay. With such walks and our streets as dark as Egypt, it is not safe to go out after nightfall.

More thieving is being done in our town since we have had no lights on the streets than ever before. Does it pay to be deprived of light? Echo says—no.

The wedding of Mr. C. Penebaker, of Coalport, to our fair resident, Miss Hannah Lingenfelter, was celebrated Tuesday at the bride's parents' on Spruce street.

It certainly requires too much work for one man to run the Adams Express Company at this place. However, Geo. Sanford gets there.

Tobacco, cigars and stamps to the amount of $75 were stolen from Hoffman Brothers, on last Thursday night. Light on the streets is what we need.

We will report another wedding in a day or two to the readers of the REPUBLICAN.

Harry, how is it by this time, eh?

I. Frank, our great novelty man, has started a branch store at York, Pa., where he now spends one half his time. He is ably represented here during his absence by Mr. Jos. Peifer, of Philadelphia. Joe is a fine young man and has many lady friends as well as gentlemen acquaintances. He is the right man in the right place, so to speak.

A fight occurred on the gallery in the Opera House, on Saturday night. There are certain classes of people who should not be allowed to enter the building at all while drunk. Don't sell tickets to them and keep them out altogether.

We noticed Sam Coulter, of Tyrone, at the opera, Saturday evening.

It's almost as big a job to get a hired girl in Philipsburg as it is to rent a house. It would be a good idea to import some feminines instead of all male population.

If all business men in town were like A. R. Ferstal our town would grow faster than it does. He is everlastingly building new houses. SOME ONE.

The Borough Fathers.

President Will Hillibish, Clerk Isaac Mitchell, and Messrs. Robert Cole, F. B. Stover, Ed. Brown, Jr., Robert Hepburn, and L. T. Munson sat at the council table on Monday evening.

After the usual preliminaries verbal communications were called for, there being only one. Mr. Long asked for reduction of water tax. The proper equalization of his tax will be made. No one had put any requests or statements of grievances in writing, so all was silent when written communications were asked for.

Mr. Stover, for the street committee, said that Bishop street repairs and improvements are completed. Howard street repairs about in same condition. Some work has been done on Allegheny street. The boardwalk from the Water works to John Ardell's office will be repaired by Major W. F. Reynolds. Necessary attention is being given to affairs of Linn street, and owners of property on Wisdom's Way have been given legal notice to remove their fences.

Water committee reported briefly through Mr. Cole.

Market fees since last report were $6.60.

One fine tree in the pavement on Bishop street was reported as a nuisance and the property owners are to be requested to remove it.

No report was given by Finance committee and the special committee on tax of telephone poles reported progress.

Attention was called to the fact that gutters should be made before the Schofield and Gallagar properties on Thomas street. F. B. Stover said that in his travels he notices great waste of water.

Then the bills were passed and council adjourned.

Exhibition of War Scenes.

The entertainment of actual war scenes given in Humes' Hall on Saturday night was repeated Monday evening. Messrs. Waring & Hicks are the proprietors of this excellent entertainment and have evinced great ingenuity and skill in preparing the views. The canvas moves rapidly, Mr. Hicks, the lecturer, speaks fluently and entertainingly, and the effect is pleasing and instructive. Beginning at Washington City, the audience is carried rapidly across the long bridge and then into the ramparts, giving an accurate idea of the fortifications. Then crossing the pontoon bridge, the principal battles of the war are graphically depicted. Very sad are the sensations produced when the trenches are shown where the fallen dead are placed; the battlefields, where the dead and dying lie and even views of sanguinary hand to hand conflicts. Full of interest is the view of the turret and deck of the Monitor. This is followed by several views of naval warfare. A few notable battle scenes are given, and then the mortar battery planted at Yorktown by Gen. Geo. B. McClellan. This proved so natural to the many soldiers who were present that exclamations of profound surprise were elicited. The scenes are natural and vivid in a high degree and will interest all. The time of the entertainment is not long (only an hour), hence is not tiresome.

Comrade Hicks, who exhibits the scenes and describes the events they represent, was a member of the 16th Penn'a Cavalry, serving all through the war. He was an orderly under General Hancock during the battle of Gettysburg.

Rhetoricals and Lessons.

The Bellefonte High School, on Monday afternoon, had its first rhetoricals of the season.

They were begun by Carrie Gross, who read an essay on "William Penn." William was a glorious man, which is probably what caused George Potter to declaim about the "Glory of Man." Blanche Johnston distributed part of her time into essay writing and produced one on "Distribution of Time." Miss Mattie Keller recited "The Old Arm Chair," which she finds a very comfortable chair to sit in and learn her lessons. John Bower cannot forget that the Fourth of July occurs during vacation and read an essay about it; then Paul Snyder declaimed on a similar topic—"Patriotism." Robert Woodring's essay was on "Paper." Now, we don't mean that it was written on paper. Of course, it was, but "Paper" was also the subject. "Independence Bell" was the patriotic topic which inspired Ralph Mann's declamation, and "Flowers" gave beauty to Bessie Dorworth's essay. Millie Smith recited "The church reveries of a school girl." This was decidedly humorous. In an essay H. U. Tibbens told "How Postage Stamps are Made." Wm. T. Kelley declaimed about "The Moneyless Man." "The Seasons" was an essay by Jennie Howley. "The Hardest Time of All" was described by Lulu Stover in a recitation. "Books" formed the theme of Jennie Strickland's essay, and Chas. C. Moore soared into a lofty theme when he declaimed on the "Death of Telemacus."

Value of a Useful Life.

Among the numerous lessons of value contained in the morning sermon delivered by Rev. J. O. Davis in the Episcopal church, on Sunday, were two which every reader of this paper should get the benefit of and we give them, merely, by way of explanation, stating that the text of his discourse was from I Kings 3:9, 10, including the petition of Solomon:

"Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?"

"And the speech pleased the Lord that Solomon had asked this thing."

After stating that each one must choose what sort of a life he will live, the speaker said that no one who lives entirely to himself can gain a name which will be perpetuated or that is worth perpetuating. He instanced the lives of Methuselah and Christ. The former lived 900 years during which he said not a word which was worthy of record in the Bible. Christ lived only thirty-three years, and three of those years were replete with words and works which will live forever. So the principal thing is not the length of our lives, but their usefulness to others.

Despite Solomon's wisdom—the greatest to which any man could attain—many of his last days were evil. This lesson teaches us more pointedly than any other that only the grace of God can keep us from falling.

The Weather for Three Months.

Limekiln Club.

October—If this month don't pan out thirty-one days taxpayers ought to kick for their rights. Frosts can be looked for any time after the tenth. Flies will begin to lie abed longer in the morning, and the man who sold you a patent churn in the spring will drop in just as you begin to feel sanguine he is dead. Straw hats will hang on; but in a sheepish sort of a way.

November—First blood for fall. Man who leaves the door open will have his attention attracted to the fact that the saw mill is two squares further up the street. Good time to hunt up sore throat remedies and decide whether to buy an overcoat or move south. Begin to see what an idiot you were to wish for winter.

December—Considerable weather during this month. Man who wrote "Beautiful Snow" will show up by the 20th. Sun umbrellas and bare-armed women retire for the season. Winds might be colder but are doing fairly well for December.

—Some one tells us that Harry Baney will start a grocery store in Bellefonte.

Battle With a Bear in a Corn Field.

On Saturday at noon Mr. Benjamin Gentzel, of Zion, had a most thrilling adventure with a bear, which terminated in a victory for Mr. Gentzel and the death of Bruin. Mr. Gentzel's home is in Nittany Valley beyond Nye Bank just on the path leading from Nittany to Muncy mountains. On Saturday a bear started out to make this trip, taking a near cut through a corn field which is in gun-shot distance from Mr. G's home.

Mr. Gentzel was in the field at the time and had his gun with him, though likely he was not expecting such big game. As soon as the bear was near enough, Mr. Gentzel took aim and rapidly sent two or three loads of backshot into his bear-ship's hide. The animal stopped, looked around and when he saw who had given him such an unpleasant reception went for Mr. Gentzel in lively style. Had he caught him Mr. Gentzel would have been hugged more energetically than ever before. Mr. G. sprang quickly behind a huge stack of corn-stalks and yelled for help as he knew friends were not far off. Meanwhile, he tried to disable the bear by giving him another taste of the contents of the gun. Among those who put in appearance and attracted the attention of the bear, which was angry and suffering pain, was Henry Gentzel, a brother of the first mentioned. Bruin run at Henry and took one of his legs in his powerful jaws, and might have crushed it had not Benjamin struck the animal a powerful blow on the back with the butt of the gun, breaking the bear's back and also damaging the gun.

The bear is a monster. The gun was taken to Mr. Deschner's gun shop for repairs. We congratulate the Messrs. Gentzel on their bold battle with the bear and its fortunate outcome. With the exception of the marks of the animal's teeth left in Henry's leg, neither of the brothers was injured.

W. C. T. U. News

The principal item of business on the occasion of the meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on Thursday afternoon, the 6th, was the election of officers. Mrs. John P. Harris declined to accept a re-election to the office of president and Miss Mary Owen was unanimously chosen to that position. The other officers elected are:

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Lide Thomas.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. R. M. Magee.

Treasurer—Mrs. Isaac Mitchell.

Vice Presidents, representing, so far as possible, each church in the town—Presbyterian, Mrs. John P. Harris and Mrs. E. T. Tuten; Methodist, Mrs. J. A. Woodcock and Mrs. Hutchinson; Reformed, Mrs. Daniel Keller; Episcopal, Mrs. Austin Brew; Lutheran, Mrs. Dr. Rhone; Disciple, Mrs. John H. Orvis.

The Union meets regularly each Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, instead of 4, as heretofore.

The Bellefonte Union is in a prosperous condition and two of its members are represented among the officials of the county union, viz., Mrs. John P. Harris, who is the president, and Mrs. E. M. Blanchard, secretary.

All the ladies of the town who can do so should unite with the organization and add the prestige of their individual influence and efforts to the work now being accomplished.

—On next Sunday evening, the 23d, the anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the Methodist church. The affair will be very different from preceeding anniversaries and it is believe will be more instructive and entertaining. For instance, the tedious reports of officers will not be read, but instead printed copies of the reports will be distributed to those who desire to see them. All the time will be occupied with carefully prepared religious exercises. The pastors of the town will conduct the opening devotions. These will be followed by an address by W. R. Davenport, Esq., a prominent business man of Erie. Mr. Davenport is largely interested in car works and other important business enterprises. While he is not what may be termed an orator, he is a plain, pointed and practical speaker and his talk will be especially interesting to business men. The second speaker will be Rev. George S. Chambers, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg. The music of the evening is in charge of Mr. A. Lukenbach and will intersperse the exercises.

—The 148th Regiment will have a reunion in Bellefonte on the 27th instant—Thursday of next week. This regiment was a very important one to Bellefonte and it would be but proper for some action to be taken by the citizens to accord a rousing and enthusiastic welcome to these veterans. What character shall this welcome take? That must be decided by the citizens. How would a reception and a big dinner or supper do? Let united, quick and earnest action be taken in this matter.

—Mrs. Robb, of Eagleville, and Mrs. Smith, of Castanea, were driving in Lock Haven on Saturday. Mrs. Robb held her baby in her arms. They occupied a two-horse spring wagon. When the vehicle crossed a filled-up ditch near Ringler's hotel it upset and the ladies and child were thrown from the wagon. Both the ladies were hurt and the baby—nineteen months old—was so seriously injured that it is not expected to recover.

Personal Pencilings.

J. R. Harner, of Houtzdale, was in town on business Friday.

Mr. Harry Baney, of Philipsburg, has been in town several days.

John M. Ward and bride expect to visit Bellefonte during their honeymoon trip.

Dr. Van Tries, of Baileyville, was among the visitors in Bellefonte on Thursday.

Mrs. Benner Graham and her family are at home again after quite an extended absence.

L. L. D. formerly stood for Doctor of Laws—but now it represents Liquor League Democrats.

Mr. William Marshall, of Chester county, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harry Hicks, on Linn street.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the distinguished iron master, has arrived home from Europe with his bride.

Miss Rebecca Bollinger, of Aaronsburg, will teach a school near Martha Furnace, beginning on Monday, the 24th.

Mr. Lincoln, a very intelligent and agreeable gentleman from Philadelphia, is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Mr. Jacob V. Thomas, of this place, is off for another trip to Minneapolis. He started on the evening train on Tuesday.

Miss Annie Valentine was one of the bride's-maids at the Coryell-Meyer wedding in Lock Haven on Tuesday evening.

We are glad to see that J. C. Harper, Esq., has so far recovered from recent quite serious illness that he is able to walk out.

Miss Kate Green, daughter of Mr. F. Potts Green, is at home again, having spent several months visiting friends in the West.

Joe W. Furey, of the Lock Haven Democrat, is contemplating a trip to the North pole. As for us, we prefer Summer weather.

Mr. Snyder, of Eagleville, spent a portion of Saturday in town and favored this office with his presence between 4 and 5 o'clock p. m.

Mr. Amos Garber, of this county, has purchased the stock, goodwill and fixtures of S. B. Harndon, grocer, at 918 Chestnut avenue, Altoona.

Those eminent citizens of Centre Hall, James C. Boal, S. J. Herring and William Mingle, have gone to Pittsburg as witnesses in a fraudulent pension case.

Rev. W. O. Wright, of Milesburg, preached in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning and Rev. Mr. Zimmerman of Livermore, Iowa, filled the pulpit in the evening.

Profs. Jackson, Barnhart and Davies were among the intellectual lights from State College who illuminated Bellefonte on Saturday. Come again, with even increased effulgence.

Philip M. Fischer, who is the superintendent of education at Oakland, California, is now visiting his brother Rev. Mr. Fischer, pastor of the Lutheran church in Centre Hall.

Rev. W. H. H. Snyder, pastor of the Reformed church, left Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Sunbury, where the Synod of his church will meet. His daughter, Miss Mary, accompanied him.

Prof. Holter, of State College, has been ill with typhoid fever for the past two weeks. We are glad to hear that he is now very much better and will soon be able to resume his duties. During his illness he has been at the home of his mother near Curtin.

Rev. J. A. Woodcock and his sons, Lee and Jay, have gone to Fulton county, where Mr. W. owns property. The boys took a gun along and will spend part of the time while there in shooting the lions, bears, tigers, buffalo and other wild animals of that region.

Rev. Mr. Zimmerman, of Livermore, Iowa, who has been spending several weeks visiting friends in this vicinity, during which he preached several times in the Presbyterian church, is now en route to his home. He spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brew in Tyrone.

Mr. Will Bartley, looking soldierly and fine in his military uniform, came from the State College on Saturday to see his Bellefonte friends. He has the cap and coat, which are dark blue, and is awaiting with extreme impatience the arrival of the sky blue trousers with their black stripe.

Mr. Jacob Swavely and family departed on Wednesday. Mr. Swavely goes to Roanoke, Va., and his family will visit for awhile with friends in Renovo, before joining Mr. S. in the South. Mr. Frank E. Bible will conduct the local department, assisted liberally by Mr. James Noll, the present solicitor and collector.

—On Saturday morning a meat market man, whose name we have heard mentioned as Haag, was driving his cart out the Milesburg pike. When near the lime klins something frightened the horse and he jumped, cart, meat and all, over the bank. People who saw the frightful occurrence expected to see the horse or the man seriously hurt. But as it happens, no injury was done to either though the wagon was damaged and the meat scattered.

Bucktail David Glenn will be present from Bellefonte.

The Church Re-dedicated.

The remodeled church edifice of the Lutheran congregation at Pine Grove Mills was dedicated on Sunday, services being held morning, afternoon and evening. The afternoon service was for the children.

Rev. S. E. Furst, of Mifflinburg, and Rev. J. H. Menger, of Philadelphia, were present. Rev. Mr. Menger is very successful in discharging the duties of such occasions and his efforts on Sunday proved more than successful. The Reformed congregation owned an interest in the building and at the suggestion of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Warner, this was added to the other indebtedness to be paid off at once. But few persons believed it could be done, but the gentlemen in charge went to work and the entire amount—$1600—was raised then and there, and now the pretty remodeled building is free of debt.

—The religious work under the control of Rev. J. P. Sarvis, at Pleasant Gap, is progressing grandly. The congregation at Pleasant Gap has been built up and strengthened. Rev. Mr. Sarvis is now conducting a revival meeting at Rock Forge. Ten persons have been hopefully converted and there are fifteen others anxiously seeking forgiveness. He also preaches regularly in the Ironworkers' church at Valentines' forge. Rev. Mr. Sarvis has made himself useful to the community in other ways than merely in the discharge of his duty as a minister. Being concerned about the somewhat neglected appearance of the cemetery at Pleasant Gap, he had all the weeds removed, personally engaging in that work. He also raised money to build a neat and substantial fence around it.

—In the rooms of the Kismet club here there is a unique and interesting relic, which recently came into the possession of the club. It purports to be the sword used by George Washington in the battle of Gettysburg. As we gaze upon the noble blade peculiar sensations control us. We are carried back—in our minds—to the historic conflict and can see G. W. wield the implement with decision and effect. But we are forced to remember, at the same time, that the Father of His Country has had many successors, in name, and the George Washington who handled this blade was one of them.

—Everybody who attended Barnum's show did not fare so very well. There was a "scalper" outside the grounds who sold tickets at an advance and when John Emory (colored) gave this fellow a dollar for two tickets, twenty cents more were demanded. When John expostulated the ticket seller kicked John viciously in the face. Emory's eye has been draped in mourning ever since. We do not think that Barnum should permit such "scalpers" to accompany his show and are of opinion that the fellow should have been arrested in this instance and his career temporarily checked.

—Mr. Robert P. Tuten who now resides in Iron Mountain, Mich., is developing into a genuine banker. He was in partnership with his brother, Edward T. Tuten, several years ago, in conducting the Bellefonte Republican. Since then he has been publishing a paper in Iron Mountain, in which we read that R. P. Tuten is one of the incorporators of a National Bank in Iron Mountain, Mich., with a capital of $50,000.

—Nothing can be neater or more cheerful than the inside of Garman's new hotel, although the necessary delay in introducing steam heat and gas fixtures postpones the time for occupying it. We notice that very handsome china and silverware for use on the tables has been purchased. On all the articles of silver the name "Garman" is engraved.

—The market on Tuesday was quite small, but some very toothsome and attractive garden produce was offered for sale. There, for instance, was some fresh salad, excellent tomatoes, choice apples, crisp celery, et cetera. Then there was a good collection of fine fowls.

—The heating apparatus in the new school house gives perfect satisfaction.
